POLICE GRILL 6 FRIENDS OF SLAIN GIRL

Andrietta Hildebrand, Oakland Mill Owner's Daughter, Found With Throat Cut in S. F. Apartment

Laundry Worker, Who Says He Was Fiance of Dead Woman, Quizzed All Night Concerning the Murder

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 9.—After arresting, questioning and releasing six persons, the police investigating the murder of Andrietta Hildebrand, pretty 19-year-old telephone girl, are still at a loss as to the identity of the murderer. The girl had lived alone in an apartment at 1591 Greenwich street.

William de Lucca who Thursday evening, notified the police of the murder, was subjected to a six hours' grilling by Police Lieutenant R. F. Foley. He maintained his innocence. He was released but told to return for further examination. De Lucca told the police he had entered the girl's apartment when she had failed to answer his knock and had found her dead on her bed.

An autopsy made by Dr. John R. Clark this morning disclosed that the wound in the head, which had been previously supposed to have been a bullet wound, was simply another cut and penetrated only to the skull. The autopsy, according to Dr. Clark, indicated that death was caused by the wound in the throat.

MEN FRIENDS OF GIRL ON GRILL.

Jack Dwyer and Frank Rossi, two other acquaintances of the slain girl who, according to Lucca, had once attempted to attack Miss Hildebrand and her girl chum, Hazel Nielsen, and had forced the two girls to walk home alone when the girls had repulsed the attack, were also arrested, but later taken into custody again and grilled for a second time. They were finally released again.

Miss Nielsen indorsed the idea that Dwyer and Rossi had committed the deed, and in her story to the police told of a quarrel that De Lucca and the dead girl had had a few weeks before the tragedy. She said Andrietta had told her that De Lucca had beaten her once out of jealousy.

VICTIM'S FATHER LIVES IN OAKLAND.

David Hildebrand, the girl's father, and a planing mill proprietor of Oakland, told the police that he knew little of his daughter's friends since she had left his home to live alone in San Francisco, three years ago.

The girl's mother, Mrs Lillian Modecke, who was divorced from Hildebrand several years ago, visited her daughter Wednesday and found her at that time in high spirits. She could give no information to the police

VICTIM GUARROTED WITH WINDOW CURTAIN.

The body of the girl was found naked save for a sheet wrapped around her on the bed in her apartment. A bullet wound was found in her head, and there was evidence to show that the murderer had first shot the girl, and then had tried to conceal the bullet wound. Later the dead girl's throat had been cut from ear to ear and her body terribly mutilated with knife wounds. Her chemise was found stuffed in her mouth. A curtain torn from a nearby window was drawn tight around her neck.

The police found Lucca standing by the body, when they answered his call. He poured out his story in detail as the detectives busied themselves with taking his finger-prints and measurements.

"Last night we had a party down here in Babe's place," he told them "Hazel and Babe and I were there and Mr. and Mrs. James Caver from upstairs. They went home at midnight and Hazel had to go home at one. When Babe found out that Hazel was going home she made me to go too, although I wanted to stay and watch over her. But she said I couldn't, so I left with Hazel and then went to my home. I live at 3757 Steiner street.

UNLOCKED DOORS AROUSE SUSPICION.

"This afternoon after work, I came here to see if Babe was all right. I found that the door was unlocked—the kitchen door that opens on the alley. That worried me; the night before I had seen to it that the windows were all locked and the doors too. Now the alley window was open too.

"I went in and called Babe. She didn't answer. Then I came into her bedroom and saw her arm sticking out from under a pile of bedding. I grasped it. It was cold. I tore the covers from her head and laid my hand on her forehead. It was cold and wet. Then I un-

PAJAMA-GARBED LUNATIC CAUGHT

Escaped Lunatic Captured in Salinas After Long Chase in Stolen Auto.

After having driven more than 50 miles along Central California highways clad only in his pajamas, Paul H. Chichester, wealthy young San Francisco merchandise broker and Oakland resident, who escaped from the Livermore Sanitarium Thursday night, was returned to the institution today and placed under guard. He was captured near Salinas last night by a traffic policeman, as he was speeding southward in an attempt to reach the Mexican border.

Chichester was arrested on an insanity warrant sworn to by his wife, Mrs Elizabeth M Chichester, who, with her two children, is living at her mother's home at 2301 Nineteenth street.

He escaped from the sanitarium Thursday night after becoming violent and threatening to burn down the place, according to authorities of the institution. He had been taken to the sanitarium three days earlier, under guard, from Mississippi, where he was arrested at his wife's request.

When he left the sanitarium, Chichester wore only his pajamas and a necktie. He walked to Pleasanton, more than six miles away, where he appropriated a sedan car belonging to a friend of his wife. In this he drove to his father's home at Campbell, in Santa Clara county, where he exchanged the pajamas for an outfit of clothing. He then set out for Mexico.

THREW HIS WIFE OUT OF AUTOMOBILE.

Chichester, who is 28, is suffering from "manic excitement," the result of a nervous breakdown, according to sanitarium physicians. While in New York City, about two months ago, he suddenly threw his wife out of an automobile and drove away, leaving her stranded in the city. Mrs. Chichester engaged the police in a search for her husband, and he was captured in Mississippi.

CO-ED SAYS LOEB EXULTED IN CRIME

Girl Witness Will Bare Boasts of Boy Slayer in Rebuttal Testimony.

By EDWARD C. DERR.
United Press Staff Correspondent.

CRIMINAL COURTROOM, CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Susan Lurie, University of Chicago co-ed and friend of Nathan Leopold Jr., will be called to the witness stand by the state to testify that in her opinion "Babe" was perfectly "sane and normal," State's Attorney Robert E Crowe announced today.

Miss Lurie, Crowe said, came to his office soon after young Leopold and his companion, Richard Loeb, confessed killing Robert Franks and told him she had "been on a couple of dates with Babe since the murder." She said Leopold had talked of the Franks case repeatedly — "always somewhat boastfully," she said.

Miss Lurie will be called some time next week when the defense case has been completed and the state rebuttal testimony is opened.

U. S. AIRMEN WON'T QUIT WORLD HOP

Smith and Nelson Ready to Make 750-Mile Hop if Ice Continues to Blockade Passage to Greenland Coast

Relief Ship Trapped in Floes Unable to Prepare Base Originally Selected; Craft Drifts 65 Miles in Pack

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

ON BOARD SUPPLY SHIP GERTRUDE RASK, NEAR ANGMAGSALIK, Greenland, Friday, Aug. 8 (By Wireless).—Since she was caught in the ice field near Angmagsalik early this week, the Danish government steamer Gertrude Rask, supply ship for the east Greenland station of the American world flight party, has drifted with the ice 65 miles south of Angmagsalik. It will be impossible for her to escaped until the ice spreads. When the steamer succeeds in freeing herself, she will make another effort to reach Angmagsalik from the open sea to the north of that port.

BY UNITED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

REYKJAVIK, Aug. 9.—America's round the world flight will go on.

Cold, gray clouds floated out of the west today as messages crackled into the radio room of the cruiser Milwaukee telling of a storm on the west coast of Greenland, which the army airmen hope will move eastward and break up pack ice which has imprisoned the steamer Gertrude Rask, attempting to make Angmagsalik and establish a base for the Iceland-Greenland leg of the world flight.

Whether the Gertrude Rask makes the lonely, wind-swept Greenland port or not, the airmen have no intention now of abandoning their flight until next season. With more tha 21,000 miles of their long journey completed, Lieutenants Lowell Smith and Eric Nelson are determined to continue, reaching home shores before fall sets in. If the Gertrude Rask does not make port, the airmen are considering a plan to re-fuel their planes at sea at some convenient point half way between Reykjavik and Ivigtut, Greenland.

By DAVIS J. WALSH,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

ON BOARD U. S. CRUISER RICHMOND, OFF REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Aug. 9 (By Wireless).—America's globe girdling aviators, now engaged in watchful waiting, began to lose hope today that they would be able to continue an unbroken flight homeward because of huge ice fields off the Greenland coast, but they are not yet ready to give up.

A definite decision will be taken within the next few days. Within a week or ten days new ice added to the old would make a flight to the Greenland coast impossible.

At a conference of army and navy officials on board the Richmond it was decided that it would be impracticable to try to land in the sea off the Greenland coast, refueling the airplanes from an American cruiser.

WRONG ROUTE PICKED, SAYS GLOBE FLIER.

One world flier—it is impossible for obvious reasons to give his name—admitted to the International News Service correspondent that the route of the present flight is impracticable.

Those who arranged the route overlooked the fact that at the present season there are huge ice fields off the Greenland coast. This made it impossible for the airmen to alight at Angmagsalik, the first charted stopping place after leaving Iceland.

The flier who criticized the present route said he believed the most feasible line of flight would have been over the southern route, over the Azores.

It is generally understood that Lieutenant Smith, commander of the flight, faces:

1. Either for the Danish steamship Gertrud Rask to open a sea lane for landing off Angmaksalik, or,

2. To attempt the almost impossible task of alighting on the sea and attempting fueling for the long jump to Indian Harbor.

Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, commander of the light cruiser divisions, declared today that there was no immediate thought of calling off the flight.

Magruder said he was certain the fliers would make one desperate effort to get through, adding:

"We are here to lend every assistance but will not risk the life of a single navy man if we can help it."

TOKYO, Aug. 9.—Seven hundred persons were drowned and ten thousand houses were destroyed by floods that have spread havoc on the island of Formosa, according to reports arriving today in Tokyo.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—Forty-one persons were killed, 3100 houses were destroyed and 1200 other houses damaged by a severe earthquake in Ferghana, province of Turkestan, said a despatch from Moscow this afternoon. Landslides followed the quake in Hokrovskai village, leaving only four houses standing out of 600.

ALLY DEBT MEET DEFINITELY SET

Americans at Dawes Session Take No Part in Plan for New Session.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—A conference on the question of inter-allied debts will be held in the near future, it has been definitely decided, Premier Herriot of France announced today, just before he left for Paris for a conference with his cabinet on the work of the international conference.

The French delegates had been working persistently to bring about such an inter-allied debt discussion since the present conference opened. It is understood that it has not yet been decided whether the new conference will be held in Paris or London. It was emphasized, however, that the United States' representatives were not parties to the decision to hold the debt parleys.

Marshal Foch will probably cast the vote which will decide the fate of the London international conference for putting the Dawes reparation settlement plan into effect, in the opinion of many observers here of the conference proceedings. He is the last authority on military matters in France, and Premier Herriot and his associates must have his approval of the agreement to evacuate the Ruhr, it is declared, before definite action can be taken on a multitude of technical questions which all turn about the military and political pivot.

By WEBB MILLER,
United Press Staff Correspondent.

PARIS, Aug. 9.—Despite official denials, the morning newspapers today persist in statements that the return of Peremier Herriot from the London conference is due to divergencies between the premier and General Nollet, his minister of war, regarding security of France after adoption of the plan for evacuation of the Ruhr.

Herriot, according to the newspapers, desires unconditional acceptance of the proposal of Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain that France and Belgium evacuate the Ruhr at once following Germany's acceptance of the Dawes program as a basis for settlement of the reparations question.

The French premier is unwilling, however, to sign any agreement unless the entire cabinet upholds him.

Resignation of General Nollet is foreshadowed.

SLAVERY OF LEOPOLD TO LOEB BARED

Alienist Declares Phantasies of Former's Boyhood Had No Criminal Tendency Until He Met Master Mind

Defense Testimony Will End Monday and State Rebuttal by Thursday; Case May Close This Week

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Disordered endocrine glands were held responsible for the mental and physical development of Nathan F. Leopold Jr., which permitted him to fall in with Richard Loeb's childish phantasy to commit the "perfect" crime, resulting in the kidnaping and slaying of Robert Franks, Dr. H S Hulbert, Chicago psychiatrist, testified today in the hearing to fix their punishment.

Dr. Hulbert used X-ray pictures to show to Judge John R. Caverly causes of the youth's mental and physical disorders on which the defense based its plea for mitigation of punishment.

Leopold's thyroid gland had been diseased, but the disorder has subsided, and his spinal and pituitary glands have not functioned as they should, the doctor testified.

CAME TOGETHER AS NECESSARY COMPLEMENTS.

In summing up, he concluded that the boys came together as necessary complements, one of the other, and that as Leopold was unable to resist Loeb's leadership, their association led to the murder of Bobby Franks.

Dr. Hulbert picked up his testimony where he left off yesterday with his description of Leopold's "king-slave" phantasy. He said the phantasy was continued until the age of 18, the phantasy setting the pattern of his life, Leopold's ambition coming to be the "perfect slave of the perfect king." Leopold found such a person in Loeb, said the witness, and wanted to be Loeb's perfect slave in any manner, even through kidnaping and murder." There were no criminalistic phantasies in Leopold's life, but his phantasies influenced him very largely to do what he has done, continued the doctor.

RELIGION SHAPED LEOPOLD'S PHANTASIES.

The testimony veered to Leopold's religious life, the witness saying that, because of his advanced intellectual life, Leopold ready for confirmation well before he was of age to be, and when he reached the age he did not care to be confirmed.

Leopold once visited a church in which there was a stained glass window portraying the Madonna and Christ child, said Dr. Hulbert. Leopold did not know the figures, but identified his mother with the Madonna, and himself with an older child in the picture, possibly St. John the Baptist, said the doctor.

"He does not say 'I am Christ,'" said the witness, "but says 'I am the superior person of the world,'" read Dr. Hulbert in his notes.

'He finally found fault with God because God makes mistakes, making a great mistake when he took his mother.

"His mother's death made a great change in Leopold's life. He never did adjust himself to the world after she died.

"He finally saw life with no God, no good, no right, no wrong per se."

Leopold lacked close friends, said the doctors. He felt his friends should fit in with his "king-slave" phantasy. He found they did not. He wanted to make friends, but found he could not. He made himself into a non-emotional, sheer intellectual personality. He does not have swings of moods as does Loeb."

EARLY THEFTS CITED AS CRIMINAL TENDENCY.

Asked as to Leopold's criminalistic tendencies by Walter Bachrach of defense counsel, Dr. Hulbert said Leopold stole some stamps at the age of nine from his cousin, stole his brother's necktie and traded it for cigar bands, of which he was making a collection, justifying the thefts by the statement, "why, that was all right; I wanted them." The bridge cheating plan Leopold evolved with Loeb was not a success, said the doctor, who added:

"They were not keen enough to make it a success and lost money by it."

"Indirectly he discussed the Franks murder," said the doctor in reply to a question by Bachrach. He said he could not have done it.

During a twenty minute recess state's attorney Crowe indicated the state would call a dozen lay witnesses first and then offer the testimony of four mental experts in rebuttal.

FILIPINO PLAN FOR MASSACRE BARED

Workers' Party Manifesto Calls for Death of Foreigners.

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

MANILA, P. I., Aug. 9.—Governor General Wood admitted today that the insular authorities have received copies of a manifesto issued by the Workers' party calling for a massacre of foreign land owners in the Philippines. He said he had heard rumors to the effect that a list of the intended victims had been received here.

"The movement may be serious," said Governor Wood, "but its success here is most doubtful because the condition of the Filipino laboring class is different from those of Russia. The struggle for existence among the proletariat here is far less acute than in Europe or the United States."

It was reported the manifesto originated with the "Third Internationale" and called for Philippine independence, overthrow of the present ruling class and that all capitalists be expelled.

MANILA, Aug. 9.—Commenting on a circular dealing with Philippine independence, purporting to emanate from the Workers' Party's headquarters in Chicago, which recently was received here, Jacinto G. Manahan, president of the Filipino Confederation of Tenants and Farm Laborers, denied that his organization had any connection with the Workers' Party, which is said to have communistic leanings Manahan said: "We have no purpose of waging war against the landlords and capitalists, whether native or foreign (the circular had urged that "a relentless war" be waged against them). We have our differences with the landlords, but these are confined to questions for the betterment of relations between them and members of our confederation.

STATE POST AGAIN GIVEN TO VOLLMER

Former Wife May Be Called on to Corroborate Intimate Details Chief Alone Knows States Widow Suing Him

Official Refuses Vacation Advised by Friends on Grounds Move Might Be Called "Running Away"

SACRAMENTO, AUG. 9.—August Vollmer, chief of police of Berkeley and until recently head of the Los Angeles police department, was appointed today by Governor Richardson as member of the state board of criminal identification and investigation to succeed himself.

In naming Vollmer to the state post, Richardson said he regretted that Vollmer felt compelled to decline the wardenship of San Quentin prison.

"I have known Vollmer intimately for more than twenty years," added Richardson. "He is a man of the highest character and integrity. He has proved himself one of the most efficient police chiefs in the United States. His splendid work as chief in Los Angeles during the past year is unexcelled in any city."

Lydia Sturtevant, operatic prima donna and divorced wife of Chief of Police August Vollmer, may be drawn into the trial of Mrs. Charlotte M. Lex' $50,000 breach of promise suit against Vollmer, according to announcements made today by Mrs. Lex in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Lex declared her intention to have the former Mrs. Vollmer testify that certain things Chief Vollmer is alleged to have told Mrs. Lex on one of his asserted visits to Mrs. Lex' home in Los Angeles, were things that only Vollmer could have told her and that they therefore indicated that an intimate relationship existed between Vollmer and Mrs. Lex.

That any intimacy whatever existed has been denied by Vollmer, who announced today that facts which he is withholding for the present will fully prove his innocence of Mrs. Lex' charges when the case comes to trial.

WOMAN MAY FACE SANITY TEST.

An effort to have Mrs. Lex' sanity tested may be made by Vollmer before the trial begins, it was announced today. This will be vigorously opposed by Mrs. Lex and her attorneys, dispatches from Los Angeles indicated.

Vollmer's bride, Mrs. Millicent Fell Vollmer, has declared that Mrs. Lex's assertion that Vollmer used "cave man" methods in his alleged courtship of Mrs. Lex, indicates that her story of love-making." This asserted cave-man love making is another point upon which Mrs. Lex said she wife to throw light when the case is tried.

The former Mrs. Vollmer, who obtained a divorce from the police chief four years ago on charges that he was interested only in his work, is a well known soprano on the operatic stage, where under the name of Lydia Sturtevant, she has appeared in numerous prima donna roles during the past eight years. She is now on vacation at her country place at Summer Home Park in Sonoma county.

Mrs. Lex said today in Los Angeles, according to despatches, that she has talked with the former Mrs. Vollmer 'since this trouble started."

INTIMATE TALK WITH EX-WIFE CLAIMED.

"I talked with her to find out the truth of what Gus had told me of his first marriage," she said. 'You see, when Gus first visited me, he talked of nothing except the subjects he knew I was most interested in—psychology and idealism. The third time he came to my apartment he changed completely. He told me how lonely his life had been, and how a great, beautiful love had never been his.

"He wanted sympathy. He told me about his first marriage—intimate details. That was the night he seized me in his arms and crushed kisses on my lips, telling me that at last he had found his great love.

'Now Mrs. Vollmer—the first—will be able to substantiate my testimony, for she told me I knew things about her that only Gus could have told me, and she will be able to testify that the chief became intimate with me the third time he visited my apartment."

CHIEF REFUSES TO TAKE REST.

Despite the fact that his bride of three weeks, city officials and others have urged him to get away for a period of rest as a means of protecting his health, Chief Vollmer was at his desk at Berkeley police station at his accustomed hour of eight o'clock this morning.

Prima Donna Told Her of Intimate Life, Says Mrs. Lex.

"I'm not going to be in the position of running away," he declared today. "That was why I did not take a longer vacation following my return from Los Angeles. I knew this suit was coming and I wanted to be here to face it. However, if I do find that the strain of this all is becoming too great I shall follow the advice of my wife and friends and get away for a while."

Dr. Hubert Rowell, Chief Vollmer's physician and close friend, declares that the latter is in no condition to stand further worries. A longer rest for the chief following his return from Los Angeles, where he spent the most strenuous year of his career, was urged by Dr. Rowell before Vollmer should resume his duties in Berkeley. But this Vollmer refused to do for two reasons—one that he has promised City Manager John N. Edy that he would be back on the job August 1 and the other, which did not become known until the suit of Mrs. Lex was filed in Los Angeles, that he did not want to be placed in the position of "running away" from the woman's allegations.

That the breach of promise suit as filed by Mrs. Lex, in which she asks damages of $50,000, comes as the greatest 'blow" to the chief in all of his public career is known to his friends.

"THEY'VE ACCOMPLISHED THEIR END," IS GRANTED.

"No matter what the outcome of this case may be, the people who have perpetuated it have accomplished their end," declared the chief today. "They have smeared me with mud, and that is really all they have wanted to do all the way along. They have not a chance in the world of winning this suit and they know it. Moreover, what can Mrs. Lex hope to gain personally? Certainly no woman of a normal frame of mind can enjoy the kind of publicity she is getting. I have no money and she couldn't collect from me even a small part of $50,000. As I understand it, Mrs. Lex and her family are considered wealthy, so money is no object. They is why I see other motives back of all this."

Jo S. Mills, Berkeley banker, who gave Mrs. Lex a letter of introduction to Chief Vollmer, declared today that he only did so at the woman's solicitation. That he had met Mrs. Lex in business dealings at his bank with the woman's mother, Mrs. Mary Lee, and knew her only "casually," is Mills statement.

"Mrs. Lex wrote to me from Los Angeles and asked me for a letter of introduction to the chief," said Mills today. "She wrote that she knew that I was a close friend of Gus Vollmer and said she would like a letter to him. I naturally sent her the letter. I have known her mother for fourteen years through business dealings with my bank. Mrs. Lex I have known casually for seven years. She paid her mother an annual visit and would usually come to the bank to thank us for our courtesies to her mother."

Mrs. Lee, mother of Mrs. Lex, is known to have left Berkeley last Saturday in a greatly troubled frame of mind. She told close friends that "something terrible" had happened and that she "had to get away," but did not disclose the nature of her worries. She is now at the home of her son, W. G. Lee, wealthy merchant of Auburn, who was a delegate to the Republican national convention at Cleveland this year and who is president of the Rotary club in his home city. That Mrs. Lee will remain in Auburn indefinitely is the statement of Berkeley friends with whom she has been living since the fire of last September, which destroyed her home at 1533 Spruce street.

THREE S. F. LAWYERS REFUSE TO TAKE CASE.

After visiting Chief Vollmer in his office at the Berkeley city hall on Friday morning of last week, the day of his return to his old position, Mrs. Lex is known to have visited other acquaintances in the college city and in a hysterical condition told them of alleged wrongs suffered from the chief. Her mother is said to have attempted to dissuade her from filing suit because of the notoriety attending such action and failing in her purpose is declared to have left the city. That Mrs. Lex visited no less than three San Francisco attorneys of prominence in an effort to have them file the suit against the chief in bay courts is known. All three men turned down the case. Failing to get legal support in San Francisco, Mrs. Lex returned to her home in Los Angeles and there secured an attorney.

Chief Vollmer laughingly denied today that he would seek "lie detector" tests for himself and Mrs. Lex. "I was asked if I would be willing to submit to such tests and, naturally, I said yes," said the chief. "It is well known that the lie detector has no status in court and this case is far too serious to use spectacular means to keep it alive. I have nothing to fear either off or on the lie detector."

While Chief Vollmer's bride, formerly Mrs. Millicent Fell Gardner of San Francisco, declares that she has every confidence in her husband and that she will do all in her power to aid him in fighting the charges of Mrs. Lex, she urges also that for the sake of his health the chief give up his work temporarily and follow the suggestion of City Manager Edy that he take a rest.

"WHAT DO WE CARE FOR WORLD?" SAYS BRIDE.

"What do we care what the world says when we know that everything is right and that there is no truth in any of this?" she demands. Mrs. Vollmer, a retiring woman who prefers her home duties to public life, shrinks from sharing the limelight with her husband in his successes as well as his activities. But she declares that this natural reticence does not prevent her from being the most loyal wife in the world. And this loyalty Chief Vollmer warmly affirms.

That Chief Vollmer's friends, both in public and private life, have the utmost confidence in him and are ready to aid him in fighting the case against Mrs. Lex, was testified in the many offers of assistance reaching him yesterday and today. For two days Chief Vollmer has been busy receiving personal and telephone calls from friends in civic and private life. Berkeley's city officials through City Manager Edy have given him proof of "implicit confidence" in him.

"The loyalty of my friends and the confidence others have shown in me will help very much indeed in this fight," says the chief. Vollmer will begin the active formulation of his defense when his attorney, Philip M. Carey, returns on Monday from his vacation.

CARTER TALKS TO PERALTA DONNAS

"Already the presence of the feminine touch in the affairs of the Dons of Peralta has worked a change in the attitude of the public," declared Commissioner Albert E. Carter yesterday in an address given at the luncheon of the donnas of Peralta.

"Whereas a month or so ago there was a sort of an indifference on the part of the public concerning the a roaching festival I now find a keen enthusiasm," he continued. "There is a conviction on the part of the man in the street that you are going about your preparations in a systematic, business-like way, and this fact inspires confidence. I look forward to a 100 per cent success when our week of celebration shall be closed. I also want you to know that my department of the city government is anxious to cooperate with you in any way you may suggest."

Commissioner Carter will speak this evening at the Home for the Blind, Thirty-fourth street and Telegraph avenue.

CARTER DECLARES OPPONENT SILENT AS TO CHALLENGE

Commissioner Asks for Explanation on Child Labor Stand.

"I presume that when my opponent—'Mike' Kelly's candidate for congress—declared in Berkeley the other day that the minds of the people were filled with 'chaff' that he must have had reference to those of us who have been unable to follow the workings of his mind on the subject of child labor," declared Commissioner Albert E. Carter in addressing the members of the Milmen's Union.

"Seven days ago I challenged him to explain the consistency of his position on this subject, but so far he has ignored the challenge. I asked him how he could be consistent in declaring that he considered child labor a 'national disgrace' when he was an officer of the Better America Federation which stands for child labor, and when he led the fight on the floor of congress to legalize 16-year-old child labor.

"Apparently he considers the situation self-explanatory, or else he feel that it would be useless to waste his time in attempting to make it clear to those of us with 'chaff' in our minds.

"In order that you may know exactly how I stand I want to say that I am opposed to child labor in any form. I also want you to know that I am not a member of an official or any organization standing for child labor. I want you also to know that I consider the development of our waterfront the great issue before us in the Eastbay district. Its development means new factories and new payrolls. These mean the creation of new taxable wealth through which we will be able to secure the reduction of our tax rates."

Wife Asks Divorce From Jealous Mate

Alleging that her husband on several occasions said, "Funny I feel sick this way lately; you must be poisoning my food to get rid of me," and that he was of a highly jealous nature, resenting her even saying "How do you do?" to male friends that she met on the street, Mrs. Emma V. Fisher, 1428 Blake street, Berkeley, today filed suit for divorce against Owen F. Fisher, a captain and United States inspector of hulls and boilers, now stationed at Mobile, Alabama.

The Fishers were married in June, 1920, and separated in September, 1922, when Fisher, who was ordered by the government to Mobile, refused to let his wife accompany him.

News of Politicians

Mark L. Requa, chairman of the California Coolidge organization, and Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover have just returned from a trip into the Sacramento Valley. Requa was getting a line on political conditions in the interior of the state, while Hoover was talking and investigating agriculture.

Mayor James Rolph, of San Francisco, who had a conference with Requa yesterday, reiterated his statement that he is ready to take the stump for the president, and help out in the presidential campaign. Rolph has also agreed to serve on the ways and means committee of the Coolidge organization.

"The main undertaking of the Coolidge campaign organization will be a drive to get out the Republican vote on election day, November 4," Requa stated yesterday. "California has a direct interest in the result of the election. Agriculture has commanded the government's attention, and the present administration has been drawn actively into the marketing problem. It is therefore of great importance to the state that it encourage such helpful consideration from Washington by giving its support to those who made this aid possible."

Mayor Baker, of Marysville, and Charles A. Whitmore, of Visalia, former state highway commissioner, are among those from the interior of the state who have notified Requa that they can be "counted on to the limit" in supporting Coolidge.

Wherein America's foreign and domestic trade depends upon adequate transportation facilities will be pointed out by Congressman J. H. MacLafferty in his address at the annual picnic of the draymen's association of Alameda county Sunday at Ramona Park.

In his address Friday night to the United Commercial Travelers, MacLafferty pointed out the relationship between national legislation and national commercial prosperity. "Hard times," he declared, "might easily result from faulty legislation, while business throughout the country may be materially aided by foresight and judgment on the part of the lawmakers. The prosperity of the average businessman depends far more upon affairs in Washington than is generally believed."

Members of Claremont Parlor, N. S. G. W., heard last night a brief resume of the congressional activities of the year by the representative. This was the first address MacLafferty has made before the body since his return from the capital.

"She told me two weeks ago about a ride she had taken with Jack Dwyer and Silvio Capaloni (Frank Rossi). She and Hazel met them at a dance hall and Babe told me that they drove to San Mateo and there the two boys stopped the car and tried to attack them. Jack beat Hazel and cut her lip and blackened her eye,, but both girls got away and came back to San Francisco in another machine. Babe told me that as they went away Dwyer told them that if they tried to have them arrested for the attack he would kill her.

Capaloni freely admitted the incidents of the joy-ride told of by Hazel Nielsen and De Lucca.

"I met her about two months ago," he said. "A week later after a dance, I asked them to take a ride in my mother's machine, which I had for the night.

BANK CLERK TELLS OF ATTACKING GIRLS.

"We went to a bootleg joint and had a few rounds of drinks. It was about 1 a. m. and we drove down Half Moon Bay road. Before we reached Half Moon Bay we stopped the car and Dwyer attacked Babe. Hazel resisted me. I slapped her face and she got out of the machine and into another car and came back to town."

Capaloni told the police that the man named Goof of whom de Lucca had spoken earlier as a friend of the dead girl's, was in reality de Lucca himself.

DE LUCCA'C EMPLOYER SAYS HE WAS NERVOUS.

A. Santucci, manager of the San Francisco laundry, where Le Lucca was employed, told the police that on the day of the murder De Lucca came to work later and left earlier than usual.

Mrs. S. Schwalbe, the landlady of the apartment, said that it was De Lucca's custom to drop in to see the girl several times a day, but that yesterday he failed to appear until the early evening, and then entered by the back door.

The police now believe that the murder was committed early Friday morning, while Miss Hildebrand was asleep.

HETCH HETCHY BOND ELECTION DATE TO BE SET

S. F. Voters to Decide on Ten Million Issue in September or October.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 9.—An ordinance setting the date for the $10,000,000 bond issue for further development of the Hetch Hetchy water project will be presented at the meeting of the board of supervisors Monday, Supervisor Angelo J. Rossi announced today.

Approval of the recommendations of the citizens' advisory committee and the public utilities committee for the voting of bonds to bring the Hetch Hetchy water as far as the Oakdale portal, where it would be available for sale to the Eastbay cities, was given by the supervisors yesterday afternoon.

It was announced that the election probably will be held between September 30 and October 7.

The resolutions adopted by the board postpone a proposal of a bond issue for a power distribution system in conjunction with the Hetch Hetchy project until a valuation of the three local power properties has been fixed by the state railroad commission. It was also determined that no further bonds shall be voted for water during 1925 unless the contemplated $10,000,000 issue fails at the polls.

Participation on the part of Eastbay cities with San Francisco in the Hetch Hetchy water project was advised by Maxwell Frank, Oakland attorney, who spoke at the weekly luncheon of the Oakland Optimists Club at the Hotel Oakland. The speaker declared that, in his opinion, it was a foolish move for the Eastbay cities to develop a separate source for their water supply.

He called attention to the fact that four hundred million gallons of water a day has already been developed by the Hetch Hetchy project. This project, according to Frank, is the third largest of its kind in the world. Development of a separate source by the Eastbay communities would be a big economic waste, in Frank's opinion.

MARTINEZ, Aug. 9.—Directors of the East Bay Municipal Utility District will make an inspection trip through Contra Costa Saturday, August 16, to determine the county's likely water needs in years to come. The trip was planned last night at a meeting of Contra Costa representatives with the district directors in Oakland, at which they had under discussion again the proposal that Contra Costa join with Alameda in development of a water source. The inspection trip of August 16 is expected to bring determination as to the basis on which Contra Costa would be welcomed in the district as well as giving some near definite figure of development and consequent demands for water.

Sunday Tribune Reveals Plot to Erase War Debts

ENACTMENT of the Dawes' reparation plan will make impossible the payment of the French war debt to America, Paris statesmen figure. William Bird, in an exclusive cable dispatch to The Sunday TRIBUNE, says Premier Herriot believes himself justified in expecting another allied conference for the sole purpose of convincing the United States that the war debts of Europe should be "wiped off the slate." Other nations of Europe nourish. the same hope, Bird states.

The story is worth credence because Bird was the first among European correspondents to herald the fact that France would sanction the Dawes' program. He says that America rather sternly pointed to the sole path of peace and bade France to follow. France did. And the path leads nowhere else than to freedom from war debts, experienced politicians of Paris argue.

And America did force the peace, A. G. Gardiner cables from London. He gives Secretary Hughes and Thomas W. Lamont credit for the achievement and, incidentally, says it reflects great credit on the Republican party.

Maximilian Harden, Germany's foremost publicist, visits Paris for the first time since before the war, and finds that the military spirit is dead. He compares it regretfully with the bellicose spirit animating Berlin. His astute summary of conditions is to be found exclusively in The Sunday TRIBUNE.

ALAMEDA COUNTY DEMOCRATS MEET

At a meeting of the Alameda county Democrats, held last night at the Hotel Oakland, James F. Peck, local attorney, was elected president of the Davis and Bryan club.

Peck, in a speech to those present, stated the principle issue of the campaign would be honesty in government, and outlined the campaign to be carried out in Alameda county.

Judge Claude Burkitt, of Glenn county, the Democratic state chairman, expressed the opinion that "owing to a division in the Republican party there is a good chance for the Democrats to again carry California."

An amusing account of his experiences in New York was given by George Beck, of Livermore, a delegate to the Democratic convention.

COOLIDGE WILL REST UP AFTER HIS NOTIFICATION

President and Family Will Go to Vermont for Ten Days' Vacation.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Satisfied with progress of the Republican campaign, President Coolidge decided after receiving a report on the situation from Chairmaan Butler of the national committee to take a vacation of ten or twelve days shortly after the formal notification exercises to be held here August 14.

Coolidge plans to go to his father's home at Plymouth, Vt. Mrs. Coolidge and their son, John, will comprise the remainder of the party. It will be the first time Coolidge has left the White House for more than two days since he entered office a year ago.

Despite his ability to keep going in the intense heat of the last week, friends have urged the president to take a rest, pointing out the difficulties under which he has worked the past year, coming into office so suddenly, and the strain he and Mrs. Coolidge were under during the recent illness and death of their youngest son, Calvin Jr.

The president made known today after the conference with Butler his satisfaction with the progress reported but joined with the national committee chairman in planning a vigorous campaign. Also after the conference, Butler announced the Republican fight would be carried to the northwestern states, considered the stronghold of Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin, independent candidate, in response to the advice of many party leaders who have declared sentiment in that territory is markedly strong for the Coolidge-Dawes ticket.

Reports generally from the country, Butler said, after visits to the Chicago and New York offices of the national committee, "show an enthusiastic display of confidence in the character, ability and fitness of President Coolidge and General Dawes."

"An improved economic condition of the people in the northwestern states has aided the campaign materially also, he reported, but added that establishment of regional headquarters at Minneapolis had not yet been decided upon.

EASTBAY CHURCH NEWS

'Key to Life Of Power' Is To Be Subject

Cecil T. Axworthy, the assistant pastor, will preach tomorrow morning and evening at the Tenth Avenue Baptist church, corner of East Fourteenth street and Tenth avenue. In the morning his topic will be "The Master to a Life of Power."

"This sermon," says the minister, "naturally follows that of last Sunday upon 'The Meaning of Life.' It was pointed out that to the average person life was little more than a continual round of attempting to satisfy our needs and desires by hard work, concentration and study. Only five per cent ever gain complete financial independence, but despite these facts we are made of stuff that tenaciously keeps on with the assurance that there is more to life than revealed in the pay envelope. Just as we have within us an innate desire for life itself and have a tenacity that clings to it and fights for it to the last, so we have an innate desire for immortality and a desire for a knowledge of the meaning of life here with reference to that beyond the grave. The speaker showed how God, in response to this longing which He put within the soul of man Himself, has not left man comfortless or hopeless, but has sent His own son to live the life of a man and to show man a key to eternity through belief in Himself."

Tomorrow Axworthy will attempt to show how one, by evaluating life properly, can come into his full inheritance of the promise made by God through Christ, 'and greater things than these shall ye do.' He advises those interested in gaining a life of power to bring paper and pencil that they may jot down the necessary conditions which must be obeyed.

In the evening the church is in union service with the Brooklyn Presbyterians and the Eighth Avenue Methodists at the Methodist church. Axworthy will also preach at this service, his subject being "Blessed are the Peacemakers."

Rev. George W. Phillips, the minister of the church, returns Thursday from his vacation in the East and will preach at both services on August 17. The Sicilian Trio will play and both services will be broadcast by radio.

According to Dr. Reed the great task of American citizens today is to preserve and improve the political, economic and social institutions that we have inherited from the founders of our country. He will speak of the results of communism in Russia, and the experiments of socialistic governments in different countries of Europe since the World War, which have wrecked the economic life of those nations. He will describe the highest developed form of industrialism, falsely called capitalism, as manifested in America, which rests upon the foundation stones of industry, thrift, individual initiative and the safeguarding of the rewards of faithful service and honest work.

Dr. Reed will answer the questions: What is the relation of industry to religion? Why has America the industrial leadership of the world? What is the true index of the prosperity of a people? What is beyond industrialism?

Adventists' Leader Hits Evolutionists

"Seventh Day Adventist missionaries are carrying on labors in 115 different nations, preaching and teaching in 194 languages.

"Our gospel and health literature are going into 115 different tongues," said Elder O. Montgomery in his sermon this morning in connection with the Seventh Day Adventist biennial conference, which closes tomorrow night at the auditorium.

An audience representing the Adventist churches in the bay section was present.

The sabbath school was conducted at 9:30 with Elder N. C. Peterson, San Jose, acting as superintendent. Professor W. W. Ruble conducted a review of the previous lesson in the senior division, and Prof. W. E. Nelson conducted the lesson study for the day.

Interests in the publishing work, sanitarium work and the schools of Seventh Day Adventists occupied the attention of the delegation yesterday.

Of the college work conducted at the Pacific Union College Prof. W. W. Nelson, president of that institution, declared the aim of the institution to train Christian workers for various lines of religious work. The denomination, he said, is dependent on its higher schools of learning for their trained preachers and teachers.

He declared that evolution is not taught and said that the teaching of evolution undermines the principles of Christianity and would strike out the chief points of belief of Seventh Day Adventists—that there is a sabbath which is a memorial day of creation week, and that Christ is coming the second time to redeem the faithful from this earth.

The conference will reconvene tonight at 7:30 at the Seventh Day Adventist church on Twenty-fifth near Telegraph avenue and will continue in session tomorrow.

A Thought for Today

By The REV. KENNETH OWENS.

"How long wilt thou sleep, O Sluggard?"
—Proverbs 6:9.

How long, O sluggard, wilt thou sleep?
The shining days like sabers leap
From out the scabbard of the sky;
"A new days dawns," the hours cry.

Great work is waiting to be done
Before the setting of the sun—
The work of helping those who need
Our strength, with hearts that bleed.

Have faith in God! Bestir each limb
And labor for the love of Him—
Awaken, sluggard, to thy tasks,
And do whatever Jesus asks.

ENDING CAREERS

THE chair of the languid man was balanced on its hind legs on the sidewalk in front of the frame hotel and his feet were braced against a tree. Except when the arrival of the bus caused him to bring his feet down that he might exhibit more interest, this was his pose and manner for the greater part of every day in the week. He was a fixture of the sort to tempt the stranger to inquire.

"You wouldn't think to look at me," said the languid man, "that in my time I was an actor, a wild Indian, and assistant to an eminent physician."

Unless the stranger proffered a cigar and drew up a chair the pause at this point in the narrative was prolonged indefinitely. With a lighted cigar, the man continued.

"I had a great and promising career in three professions, laid in my lap, as you might say, by an over-generous Providence. What young fellow would not welcome the chance to become an actor? Who is there who would scorn the opportunity to learn medicine under a master? And then," the languid man sighed, "there was the wild Indian part." He gazed sorrowfully into a cloud of smoke.

"Ever hear of Anderson's Ameliorating Ointment? Or Anderson's Amalgamated Exhibit? Well, I was Anderson's assistant all the way through with the salve and the show, helped mix the stuff, helped sell it, acted in the show, traveled all over the country and, in my small way, was quite some figure in the dramatic world.

"We played under canvas. Sneaked into towns without announcement, put up our tents and acted mysterious, then boomed up the drum and high hats and had them coming. The doc gave them a show for nothing, then made his little speech. You would think to hear him all that was standing between humanity and the millenium was a box of Ameliorating Ointment. He let them have it cheap at 50c and, under pressure, would sell as many as six boxes to a customer. I tell you I learned a lot about medicine and acting and was on my way.

"What with a storm, and a flood and with the busy season when folks did not have time to apply ointment, we struck a run of hard luck and there were nobody left in the show but the Doc and me, but he wasn't for quitting. The fewer the company, he said, the larger the rewards. I could go right on getting my $10 a week and he'd take the rest. He studied the situation and decided I would have to be a wild Indian.

"The people want wild Indians," he said, "and we will supply one." Then he paints me up and rigs up a costume and we put on a two-man show. If I do say it, I was the wildest Indian outside of a dime novel. I reared and charged in my pen. If I let our war whoops that made the women scream and gave the kids the nigh mare that was all that could be expected. I look upon it as my greatest histrionic success.

"We went over big and he raised my wages. All over the country we went, as you might say, on a path greased by ointment. We were getting prosperous as we left our healing trail behind and I was the whole show.

"Then we hit Moneka, which to me was the same as any other town. I yelled and whooped and the populace gathered. The Doc stood in the glare of the torch and dealed out salve and whenever he stopped his speech I yelled to keep up the enthusiasm. Then I noticed that a part of the crowd wore blankets. They were Indians and they were regarding me with what you call most evident disapproval. They didn't say anything; they just looked. After that the whoops didn't come so easy, but I wasn't a quitter. I did my best but the yells lacked conviction. They weren't, as you say, spontaneous-like and impressive. The blanketed crowd moved in closer and all I could see was their eyes shining in the middle of their wooden faces. The yips fairly stuck in my throat. The whole tribe moved in and I moved out. Right there Anderson and I parted company and I forsook my ambitions and my career."

The languid man threw away a stump of cigar and waited expectantly for another.

"I heard afterward," he added, "that those Indians claimed I was libeling a noble race and that they were mostly college graduates; but I don't know as that makes any difference, except as you might say, it adds a little quality to their criticism."

MY HUSBAND'S LOVE
by Adele Garrison

THE MYSTERY.

ALONG the winding wood road, long abandoned, which led from our pasture to one of the lesser-traveled thoroughfares of the section, I drove my car with its precious freight. The rain pattered unceasingly upon the top of the car, and the trees on either side of the road swayed menacingly, but my lights and automatic windshield-cleaner functioned admirably and I made fairly good time to the place where the wood road joined the other. When we started I had told every one of the occupants of the car to watch for any other car light, and Mary the brightest and most resourceful child, save Marion, whom I ever have seen had promptly wriggled herself into a position where she could see out of the rear window. Just before we reached the opening into the wider road, she spoke excitedly.

"There's just a twinkle away off through the woods that side, Auntie Madge. Maybe it's a house, but it looks as if it were moving."

At my right there was an opening in the bushes into which a car could be backed. I spoke to Edwin quickly.

"Please take the flashlight and see if the ground in there is hard enough to bear the weight of the car, so that we can get out again easily if I back in now."

The words were hardly out of my mouth before he was down investigating.

"All right," he reported, climbing on the running board. "Never mind watching the back. I'll tell you when to stop."

With his aid I had the car backed off the road in a few seconds, and disposed it in such fashion that no one passing in the dark would know it was there. I turned off headlights and engine, and turned to investigate Mary's discovery.

"There's no house anywhere near, Mary," I said, "so it must be a car."

"It is," she exclaimed. "See, the light is growing brighter!"

"We will wait until it passes," I cautioned. "Quiet, everybody."

"Why are you doing this, Margaret [illegible]" asked in a low tone, but her husband, as he climbed in beside me, spoke a peremptory "Hush!" which silenced her, but did not give me any comfort, for I was busily asking myself the same question.

It was no part of my plan to have anybody witness the emergence of our car from the old wood road. Such an appearance would be sufficient to set the tongues of the country-side to wagging even if no direct harm to our plan came to us. But my common sense told me that it would have been sufficient precaution to have turned off lights and engine. The other action had been the result of one of my intuitive hunches which seize me occasionally and which I generally have found it well to heed, even though they appear to be bizarre in the extreme.

The light came on steadily, and we heard the throb of an engine. It was coming at an ordinarily fast pace, but—I wondered if my imagination were playing me false—surely it was slowing up—yes—it was stopping directly at the opening into the wood road.

Above the muffled throb of the engine we heard two masculine voices in quick colloquy, though we could not catch the words. Then the machine turned into the road from which I had backed, and its headlights came flashing toward us. For one breathless instant, at a curve, the light reached our car. Would the men see us? I did not realize that I was gripping my brother-in-law's arm until, when the car had gone on without halting, he put up his hand and took mine down.

"You have some grip, Madge, I'll say that for you," he said in a low bantering tone, which I knew was intended for my calming. "What's the answer to this trip of that car through here? Bootleggers?"

To me, excited, tense with the idea that in some way the detective had found out our intention of taking away the Harrison children and had devised a trap for us, the words fell upon my ears with blessed reassurance. I remembered the activities of the family across the road, and the fact that Harry Underwood, apparently familiar with the abandoned wood road, had used it when he inexplicably had aided the wounded bootlegger to escape.

The road came out in the pasture, at the extreme limit of the farm, a lonely spot sheltered by trees. At night it made an ideal rendezvous, but—I could not believe that they would be able to carry many bottles or kegs across our fields without danger of discovery. Then I remembered that a few yards from the pasture bars a branch path diverged, one which I had seen tangled with underbrush. The conviction seized me that the tangle was but a blind, and that on the other side of it the road had been made passable.

At any other time I would have been eager to track the mysterious car, and to find out if my suspicions were justified. But now my only emotion was relief at finding that we were not the quarry of the men in the other car; my one desire, at swift departure from the place in which we were hidden.

PREJUDICE AGAINST CLINGING VINE VARIETY

Gang, I wish there was a handy shoulder I could weep on. (I can't use my own.) I've got a rip-snorting complex against clinging vines who call themselves "Babe."

I've tried to get over it and love the little dears who need a sturdy oak to twine about, but I can't. I want to shake 'em until their back teeth rattle, and then stand 'em on their own two feet. Think of a girl, entering college, determined to be an "M. D.," and signing "Babe" to her letter. Deliver me from ever calling in a "Babe" doctor to cure my ailments. Let me suffer!

Dear Jerry:

I know if I come to you I'll feel better, and oh, how I wish I could tell you just how I feel. I'm 18, still terribly young, Jerry. Too young to begin thinking about the male sex, I know, but there is a young man, and Jerry, dear, I don't know what to do.

He's 23, just graduated from college and very, very nice. I can't say I love him, but I do think a lot of him. He's been in the habit of escorting me home from church entertainments, etc. He's not at all forward, and oh, so very sensitive, and it's that that makes it so much harder.

The other night I went to a party, which he also attended. We did not go in pairs or couples. When it came time to go home I rather looked forward to his company on the way home, but as I got outside the door another boy came up and offered to escort me. He had a car, the other did not. I didn't want to go with him at all, but I couldn't refuse.

Then, Jerry, some one put a little dark thought into my mind, which has gradually grown larger in the past days until it haunts me all the time now. That thought was, that that young man had grown tired of my company, or by some action on my part (something which I can't figure out) I had made him feel differently about me, and as he was not out and out in speaking (although I had always thought he was) he had asked this boy to take me so he wouldn't have to walk home with me.

Oh, Jerry, do boys do that? I can hardly think that of him, but I just can't get that out of my mind. I can't go to mother. She's very sick and under the care of two nurses, and dad is so worried about her that I don't feel that I can bother him with this, so, Jerry, I came to you.

I wouldn't hesitate to tell him that I didn't want him to feel obliged to take me home, but everybody knows we like each other, and that is what struck me so queerly. This boy that did take me home from the party has before been very careful to put us together and as I arrived early and these boys came later in a bunch I had all the more reason to think that he had asked the boy to see me home so he wouldn't have to.

Jerry, do you think I ought to go to him and tell him not to take me home every time? He's been doing it for a year now and maybe he has another girl by this time. I don't care. There are plenty of others who would consider it a favor if I allowed them to, but I simply don't crave their company. I like his.

Boys are queer, aren't they, Jerry? I never know how to take them. Some like you to flirt with them, others like you at a distance and then some are regular pals. But on the average, a boy respects a girl who holds her dignity.

A little affection is all right, but I put my foot down when it comes to kissing. That's the first step which leads to the destruction of the girl's life, and my mother has always stressed that point. She has said to me, "Daughter, never let a boy kiss you unless you know he loves you and expects later on to claim you. A kiss leads you on and on and it results in sin. Your husband will appreciate and have more respect for his wife if he knows that he was the one to obtain your first kiss."

Jerry, I can say that, but I've often wondered if I wouldn't feel the same about my husband. A boy will go as far as a girl will, but if that boy has any character he don't go far. I'm for that kind of a boy and Jerry he's that kind.

I hope you'll print this letter. I'm counting on your advice, Jerry, and you'll have to take the place of mother for me this time, now that my little mother lies so ill. There, I feel better, now that I've wept on your shoulder. May I come again?

Just a minute, I've thought of something else. Do you think that it's because I'm so young that he's afraid it will go too far? I'm just starting my college career and am taking an M. D. course, which will take nine years to complete and I'm set on completing it. Then, of course, I want to go into practice for a year or two. Maybe he feels, Jerry, that it's too far ahead, and as he is 23 it's about time he settles down for life. Oh, Jerry, I can't bear that thought. Tell me what to do!

Love and loads of thanks,
BABE.

You're about as well fitted to study medicine as I am to be a tight rope walker in the circus. You are the sort of girl who would get a red nose and a tear in her eye if hubby were two-thirds of a minute late for dinner.

If the boy has decided that he wants a sturdy pal instead of a clinging vine, more power to him.

If you want to write me again, get over your "babe" complex and I'll treat you like a real human being.

Sorrowful wrote us recently about the cruelty of folks who abandon helpless animals.

I endorsed her remarks as well as I could without the aid of an asbestos newspaper. She had found two tiny kittens in a vacant lot and had taken them home and chloroformed them.

"A special Friend of Animals" answered her in rather a sarcastic manner. She says that chloroformed kittens come to life. They don't, if enough is given, as I know from personal experience.

Whether Sorrowful succeeded in her mission of mercy or not, has no particular bearing on her beliefs. She ATTEMPTED to be merciful.

Dear Geraldine:

I just read Sorrowful's letter in The TRIBUNE about abandoned kittens. This lady certainly must have felt good, having accomplished a deed of mercy toward those little animals by chloroforming them. Does she know that chloroformed animals come to life after a day or so? I know kittens tha, were chloroformed in the evening and put into an ash can the next morning. The day after they were calling in the ash can. Will you kindly give this a space in your column? Thank you.

A SPECIAL FRIEND OF ANIMALS.

I've found a boy that is almost too good to be true. However, all things are possible, and he proves to Broken-hearted Lou that there are other sorts in the world than those who want her only because she has a big car and oodles of money.

Miss Geraldine:

This is for "Broken-Hearted Lou" and her broken heart. First, she should remember what Portia said to Nerissa in the "Merchant of Venice." "By my troth, Nerissa, my body is aweary of this great world." Nerissa: "You would be, sweet madam, if your miseries were in the same abundance as your good fortunes are."

Portia has a message in the next few lines for you—study them.

I have been in the Eastbay cities for two years, or maybe less. My school life has been attended with the highest successes which are possible to a young man in the way of popularity, school offices and their betters. I have been called adept in drama and pronounced "wonderful" in music. I hope I still have a level head. I say these things not to brag, for it would be in vain, but to offer her something besides relief from her motor. I don't want Lou, I don't know her, but I am interested in any one who is in trouble and I want Lou to realize that there is some good in our sex.

Now for the blow! I am an orphan or practically so. I was left alone in the world when 11 years old (nearly 12) and until now I have made my way through school. But lack of money has not stood in the way of either social or scholarly success. I have been in many plays and have my sheepskin and my "recommendations" to college. I am afraid to say too much for fear that I may be identified and accused of advertising myself.

I have gone with two girls in my high school days. I went with one of them for over two years and never kissed her, although for a certain time we were together for 25 nights in succession. Her mother so thoroughly trusted us that she never questioned. We were true to her faith.

I imagine, Lou, that you have taken the wrong path to find a gentlemanly beau. Boys of the class you describe are not found in cheap shows or on notorious beaches or at vulgar jazz parties. They dance in their friends' homes, but always modestly and enjoyably. And they value time! Benjamin Franklin said: "Dost thou love life? Then do not squander time, for that's the stuff life's made of!" Worthwhile boys find pleasure in the Y or in a good book of White's or Porter's or some classic reading, or an opera or where their minds must work to enjoy themselves. And a boy expects a girl to be intelligent. If he disregards "mush" he must occupy his mind and remember that boys aren't usually interested in why Anna had on a lace or a silk dress last night, or the like.

I am looking for a worthwhile girl now. If you would attract my attention remember these points:

1. Dress neatly but modestly (regardless of resources.)

2. Never let a young man enter your car unless you are chaperoned by a capable elder.

3. Never let a boy kiss you unless you have gone with him nine months or have promised to be his wife (which no 18-year-old girl should do.)

4. Be able to talk about something worthwhile — literature, art, drama, or even politics.

5. Before you ever go out with a young man, entertain him one night for half an hour in the presence of your mother or father or a guardian.

6. In other words, make yourself hard to get—nothing worth while was ever obtained for the asking.

If you think I am right and regard my opinion as worth reading and wish me to answer any little question or big ones, write to me, through the goodness of The TRIBUNE, as

"HAMLET."

Our Children By Angelo Patri

MOTHER'S VACATION.

Everybody gets a vacation except mother. She never gets one from the day the first child is on the way, until she sleeps the long night's sleep. Even when the family insist upon her leaving them for a two weeks' rest, she has no vacation. The children go with her.

They are always with her. In her deepest sleep she will hear one of them cough, and be half-way down the hall to his room with the camphorated oil before he has drawn his second breath. While they are in school, she is thinking about them, wishing that Peter Augustus did not have that bad ear and hoping that the teacher would remember to keep him away from the draughty window and wishing too that Mary Ellen was not such a flibberty-gibbet and hoping that she was paying strict attention to what the teacher was saying this morning.

All through college she follows them planning and managing and wishing and hoping until they are graduated. But she isn't through then. As each starts out on his job she goes with him. She worries about the deal Peter Augustus is trying to put through and knits her brows over the new head in the office where Mary Ellen has begun her work. If only she could be beside them to help and advise. But they must do the best they can and so must she. So she worries the next few years.

And then they get married and start homes for themselves. The lonliness of the house is awful and the though of the children facing so much of the trouble of the world without a bit of experience to guide them. She shivers over the mistakes they may make and hopes they won't take things to heart as much as she did. That girl that Peter Augustus married is very nice of course, but can she bake? That's the question. Peter Augustus cannot get on if his stomach is the least upset. Dear, dear. And will that chap be good to Mary Ellen? She's so young, after all. So she makes them each a cake.

hen the grandchildren come and the story starts all over again. Grandmother is called because the baby has colic and she is the only one who can make her comfortable. The young mother has to go home to visit, so grandmother takes charge of the house and the baby. Always there are the children.

Then, knowing that under the best of conditions mother has no vacation—never comes to the place where the children cease from troubling, couldn't the children try to be a bit more thoughtful and so ease her mind of some of the troubles? They could try a little harder in school and bring her a good report. That helps a lot. They could bring home more cheerful tales from the shop and the office and so keep from adding to the load. They could manage a little better in their own homes and not make such demands upon her when she is tired with labor of raising her own family.

Vacations for mother are the little happy surprises that come along unexpectedly from day to day. Slip in as many as possible and the effect will astonish you. Do a little thinking about mohter. Then do a bit of something that will lighten her task.

Uncle Wiggily

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE TEA KETTLE.

Mr. Longears was sitting in his hollow stump bungalow one morning, having come up from the seashore to get himself a new straw hat, when he heard the sound of voices near the back steps.

"I tell you he is in there!" said one voice.

"I tell you he isn't!" whispered another voice. "He's down at the seashore on his vacation!"

"My goodness! I wonder who this is?" thought Uncle Wiggily, sort of turning pale around his pink nose. "It may be the Fox and Bob Cat talking about me."

Nurse Jane, who had also come up from the seashore with Uncle Wiggily, to do some shopping at the fifteen and sixteen cent store, wasn't in the bungalow just then. So Uncle Wiggily carefully looked out through a crack in the back door.

"I tell you he is here!" he heard the voice say again. Then he saw Jackie and Peetie Bow Wow, the two puppy dog boys, and everything was all right.

"Hello, doggies!" laughed Uncle Wiggily, opening the door. "What did you want of me?"

"Will you please let us take a tea kettle?" barked Jackie, and laughing at his brother who had said the rabbit gentleman wasn't at home.

"What in the world are you going to do with a tea kettle?" asked Mr. Longears. "Are you going to make an automobile?"

"We are going to play steam engine," answered Peetie. "We want to put some water in the kettle and hang it over a camp fire we have made down by the brook. When the water gets hot it will boil, steam will come out of the spout of the kettle and it will look just like a make-believe engine."

"Well, here is Nurse Jane's tea kettle," said Uncle Wiggily, taking it from the stove and giving it to the doggie boys. I mean he gave them the kettle—not the stove, of course. "Be careful you don't burn yourselves," he told the puppies.

"We will!" they barked, and away they ran with the kettle. Uncle Wiggily could hear them laughing and barking as they played steam engine down at the brook. Then, all of a sudden Nurse Jane came back.

"Where is my tea kettle?" she cried, not seeing it on the stove.

"I let Jackie and Peetie take it to play engine with," answered Uncle Wiggily.

"Well, you'll have to go get it away from them," said Nurse Jane. "I want to boil water for tea."

Uncle Wiggily went down to the brook where Jackie and Peetie were playing. By this time the kettle was boiling over the fire. But Jackie had stuck a cork in the kettle spout so that steam wouldn't puff out until he was ready.

Hotter and hotter blazed the fire. Harder and harder boiled the water in the kettle, making much steam. Until, all of a quickness, just as Uncle Wiggily get there, the steam pushed the cork out of the kettle spout.

"Bing! Bang!" The cork hit Uncle Wiggily on the end of his pink nose and he cried: "Wowchie wow!" just like the Fox.

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily! We're so sorry!" barked Jackie when he saw what had happened. "We didn't know you were coming!"

"And I didn't know that cork was coming, either!" laughed the bunny gentleman, rubbing his nose. "Never mind! I'm not much hurt. Only I'll have to take the kettle in to Nurse Jane. You can't play steam engine any more."

However, he gave the doggie boys each a penny and they bought lollypops and made believe they were gum drops, so they had just as much fun.

But please don't any of you put a cork in the tea kettle or you might get burned. And if the chocolate pudding doesn't stay so late at the movies that the coffee cake has no one to help it jump over the table, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the popcorn.

WITCHES' & PIRATES' STORY DEN

LAURA SANDBERG.
Age 12.
DICK AND DOROTHY.

The Circle A ranch house was getting a cleaning for Mr. Michell, the owner, was having his wife and daughter during the summer.

Mr. Michell was a tall, well built man of about forty-five or thereabouts. He had received a letter from his wife saying she would come on the morning train and for somebody to meet her.

Next morning Dick Bennett, a young cowboy from the ranch, was sitting in the boss' machine ready to go. Mr. Michell gave him his last instructions and he started off.

The cowboys were sitting making fun of him going for a girl, as they called it.

Dick went straight to the station where a train was coming in. There were only two passengers getting off at this station, a lady who looked about forty-two or so, and a girl of about nineteen, Dick's own age.

They came up to Dick and said, "Do you know if anyone came to meet us from Mr. Michell's ranch?"

Dick touched his hat and said: "Mr. Michell sent me to meet you, so pile in the back seat."

He strapped their baggage on the running board and started home.

That evening Dick and another man were called in by Mr. Michell and were told to watch the south end of the pasture for rustlers. Other men were sent out to parts of the pasture.

Among the cowboys left was a rough looking man named John

Phillips. Every night some cattle were taken away, and every morning John was up earliest and looked like he hadn't slept at all.

That night Dorothy, Mr. Michell's daughter, slept with her window wide open, and nobody thought of rustlers for they all seemed to be sleepy, especially John Phillips.

In the morning Mr. Michell went to call his daughter, but she was gone. He told everybody in the house, then went to call the cowboys. Everyone in the bunk house was fast asleep, but John was nowhere to be found.

Two of his best horses were gone also. Mr. Michell told one cowboy to go and get the cowboys that were on duty. Dick volunteered to go hunt for her. So Mr. Michell sent him out with some more men.

He found fresh tracks made by two horses and followed them. They took a short cut through the ranch and then over a hill, and far below them they could see a camp with some cattle around it. They rode around the hill and there they could see the stolen cattle and beside them two swetting horses.

They went down to the camp and in one tent they could see Dorothy on a couch tied and gagged.

Dick gritted his teeth and grabbed his gun and was resolved to get the rustlers if it cost him his life.

The rustlers saw them and they had a hard fight but Dick and his men got the rustlers captured and brought Dorothy home.

Now we find a little bungalow in Oakland occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Dick Bennett and their 2-year-old daughter Violet.

EXCITED, NOT DISOBEDIENCE.

Long, long ago there lived a king who was very wise. He was so wise that people at that time said he was a descendant of the wise King Solomon.

This king, King Ruthand, ruled over an immense kingdom which was known all over the world at that time as "The Kingdom of the Wise Man." King Ruthand ruled his people so justly and lovingly that they looked up to him as their guardian in time of war and peace.

Mighty Ruthand had been blessed with a daughter and son. His queen, beautiful Rosalie, was called back to her heavenly home right after her daughter was born, which was her youngest child in this world. The daughter was like her mother in all her ways. She was delicate, sweet tempered, womanly figured and giving happiness to those around her so she was named after her dead mother, Rosalie.

Prince Edwin was handsome indeed. Since his fourteen years of borned day he was said to be the handsomest son one can wish for. With his glorious crown of golden curls on his shoulders, his handsome face and his winsome smiles he can win the heart of the most hard-hearted person. Though still so young of age, he had many compliments for the heroic deeds he had done for his father's kingdom.

One day King Ruthland was called forth to battle. Before taking leave, however, he gave his keys to his oldest child and only son, Prince Edwin. He bid them to examine everything in his castle if they want to, so as to kill time in his absence, but they positively must not lay hands on the arms of his throne, which was two golden lions with wide opened mouths.

Everything went well with the children until one morning news came and said King Ruthand was coming home with the victory of the hard won battle. The children in the excitement of the preparations for their father's return were almost bursting with happiness.

Suddenly the trumpets were being blown and the people were cheering with all they were worth. In the council room the procession marched. The procession stopped right in front of the throne and the king was just about to sit down when up rushed his children. They both laid an arm on one of the golden lions. Just as their arms touched the lions they tore away from the king's throne and rushed at the assembled people. King Ruthand at once said some magic words and the lions came back to their proper place.

After the people had calmed down from their fright, King Ruthand addressed his children thus: "Thou, my children, have disobeyed my commands not from being disobedient but only from being too excited. Wilt thou promise me in the future, no matter what will happen, to be calm?" "Yes, father," they both answered meekly.

From that time on they always tried not to be too excited over anything. For, do you not see, my readers, that if the king wasn't home what grief would come over the people? King Ruthand said the magic words to stop the lions from destroying his people, but you can imagine how sorowful he would be if the mischief was done before he came home.

A BLIND BOY

I've never seen the valleys
Of beckoning, purple sage;
That mother reads about to me
From books, page to page.

I've never seen the meadows,
The orchard, grove and trees,
The nodding, slender birches,
And the buy, buzzing bees.

I can never see the pine trees
Crystalled with winter snow,
Nor stand beneath an oak tree
And hear the north wind blow.

I've yearned to see the deep, blue sky,
Dotted with bright, yellow stars,
A night like a pansy with a golden heart,
And breaking the gloom, planet Mars.

I've asked to see the dew, gray dawn,
So filmy, so wistful, and still,
And I've waited to see the great red sun
As the world, with its light, it fills.

And when can I see the sunset
Amid veils of purple and gold?
And when can I see the evening?
Our little town, silently fold.

I've waited so long to see these things,
These things my father calls joys;
I've waited so long to be a Boy Scout,
But I'm only a little blind boy.

Oh! will I have to wait very long,
'Till I see the sky so blue?
And take the Scout oath, and learn the Scout law,
And be a Scout, loyal and true?

Mother whispers softly and Dad tells me jokes,
And sister tells me her joys;
But do you thhink you'd like to be me?
Only a little blind boy.

Our CHEERY CHUM

A PRETTY HOUSE.

"What a pretty little house!" cried Betty Cut-out as Roger led them up the winding walk to the gardener's house on the big estate. Roger said his father was the caretaker, so they lived in the pretty, vine-covered cottage.

No one was home when they came up, though they called and called. Betty was sorry, because she wanted to meet Roger's sister. They found the back door open, so Roger went in and changed from his dirty fishing clothes.

"We have to go home, because it's getting late," said Billy.

"Come take us a piece down the road."

So Roger and Betty and Billy started down the road together.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

By Mildred Marshall

THELMA.

No list of feminine names would be complete without the lovely Thelma. It is a Norse name, suggestive of the mythology of the Land of the Midnight Sun, where Valkyries drive their gleaming chariots over the battlefield and conduct the glorious dead to their appointed places, in Valhalla.

Little was known of Thelma and seldom was the name used outside of Scandinavia, until Marie Corelli in her sensational novel of that name presented the tragic love story of a beautiful Norwegian who was transplanted from the land of fjords to the center of London's smartest and most corrupt society.

From that time the number of Thelmas in England and America were legion The name has had particular vogue in this country where the Scandinavian immigration is great. As a romantic and poetical name, Thelma is without equal, but her popularity has never extended beyond Scandinavian and English-speaking countries.

Amber is Thelma's talismanic stone It will guard her from all evil, especially from contagion To wear it on a journey will preserve her from accident Monday is her lucky day and seven her lucky number.

CHRISTINE of the HUNGRY HEART

by KATHLEEN NORRIS

The Story So Far:

After a few years of marriage Christine Knight, young, beautiful and rich, realizes that she is desperately unhappy. However, because she does not believe in divorce, she decides to make the best of her life with her adored little daughter, Betty Lou, and her openly bored and neglectful husband, Stuart. So she and Dr. Alan Monteagle, who have recently met, and found themselves in love with each other, decide not to see each other again. Then one day Stuart, driving with the woman whom gossip calls his mistress, runs into his mother's car, and almost kills Christine Alan Monteagle hurries to her side, and by working night and day, pulls her back to life.

CHAPTER XVIII.

CHRISTINE'S CHOICE

The next day that definite hour when convalescence disappears, and when the patient knows that the bright, open realities of healthy and normal existence have re-captured her, Christine confessed that to return to bed after her visit to the sun-parlor in the early afternoon, was sheer sloth, and when a few minutes later her mother-in-law was announced, she felt herself equal to the interview that must come sooner or later.

Mrs Knight, who had suffered more in mind and spirit during the last three weeks than in her entire comfortable and happy life before, looked ten years older than the handsome "Gammer" who had escorted Betty Lou to the photographer's on the momentous Monday morning.

Chrissie, on the other hand, was exquisite All the distress and doubt and rebellion of the past weeks had passed; her eyes were clear and at peace, her color was brilliant, and in her delicate loose robe, and in the shaded orderly room that was filled with flowers, she was the very incarnation of youth and beauty and happiness

"Well, Chrissie dear, you don't look very sick today!" said Stuart's mother, sitting down.

"When—when are we going to bring you home, dear?" she asked hurriedly.

"This week. Perhaps New Year's Eve. But mother," Chrissie continued, firmly, yet pleadingly, "you and daddy understand what my plans are? You know that I'm—leaving—Stuart? I don't want to sail under false colors. You know—the whole world knows—why I've not seen the papers—Dr. Monteagle wouldn't let me—I believe they all had me dead and buried, for a few days! But whatever they had or hadn't—I've lost my baby, and my little girl's name has been smirched, and my life—as far as Stuart could ruin it, is ruined!"

Mrs Knight had put her hand over her eyes, and now she moaned.

"Oh, my God, help us! Oh, God—"

"I'm sorry," Chris said gently. "But what can I do?"

"But Christine—not divorce? Think of the disgrace—!"

"Disgrace!" the younger woman echoed, with a rueful smile.

"Yes, I know—I know!" the other said eagerly, "but why make it worse? It was a terrible accident—a man driving into his mother's car, and all but killing his wife! But that—that might have happened to anybody, Christine—it might have happened to the most devoted husband in the world! The newspapers gabbled—they always do! Why, look what they've said about the presidents, and the big generals, and everybody. Nobody seriously believes what they say—"

"Ah! But this happened to be true!" Chris offered, bitterly in the pause.

"Yes, part of it! Poor, miserable weak boy that he is, he confesses that! Chris, if you could have seen him, walking up and down the library, that terrible night that we thought you were dying—"

"You mean that you seriously think I ought to go back to Stuart, and live with him again?" Christine asked, in genuine curiosity. It was as if a visitant from another sphere were speaking to her in an unknown tongue.

"No—no—no!" cried Mrs. Knight, gracefully and fervently, and Christine perceived that the other woman had reached an anticipated point in her plea. "No, dear, not that! But we ask you to take the baby—go away somewhere—Paris, if you like—buy yourself some new gowns—study, go about—live an entirely independent life—the colonel and I will make that possible, you may be sure of that! And then, in a year, say, come back, and by that time the poor, unhappy boy will be back, and then we can see Or make it a definite separation—"

"I know. I know how you feel about divorce, and indeed I feel that way myself! But I want you to think of my side of it. I am not yet 25, nd I have been very lonely. I want companionship, understanding—I want to live! Stuart has been—cruel—to me. Now you ask me still to allow him to retain a hold on me, to let him share the responsibility of my child—you ask me to take my allownce from him, humbly—an allowance that he can stop any day, or use as a lever, any day he pleases to make me come back! He'll want me again," prophesied Chris bitterly, "he isn't able to buy women of my type—"

"And what of your own soul?" pursued the older woman.

"There are two things in the world," Chris said slowly, after a silence. "Goodness, and badness—loving and hating. As long as I feel as I do now—that there is a place for me somewhere, where I can be good, where hate and cruelty can't find me, and where I can bring Betty Lou up to be a good woman—I'm not afraid!"

"You seem very sure of yourself, Christine"

The girl laughed joyously.

"Ah if you only knew how sure I am!"

A pause, and then Mrs. Knight asked suddenly, with a sort of forced steinness:

"Christine, I've no right to say this. But—but there is another man, isn't there?"

The color crept into Christine's face. For an instant she could only think of denial. Then she said honestly, "You mean Doctor Monteagle?"

"I suppose so," answered Mrs. Knight, with her hard old flush.

"Yes," Chris answered simply, with a great joy and pride flooding her whole being "He loves me, I think. And I have come to love him!"

"God help us!" whispered Mrs Knight again.

"I think God has," Chrissie suggested, calmly. "I had given Doctor Monteagle up—even his friendship. You know how hard I was trying—a month ago, to patch up my own life. There was to be another child, I was studying French, keeping up my music, I was determined to make a success of my life, in spite of a first mistake.

"And then what? Why, then I was all but killed—by my own husband, and the man who brings me back from the grave is this very man whose friendship I had put away! His hands held the knife—and I think I heard his voice down in the—in the very valley of the shadow! He comforted me—Stuart didn't. I'm young—I may live fifty years more. You can't ask me to choose Stuart—of those two!

Her passionate voice died away into absolute silence, and she was still. Mrs. Knight had shut her eyes; Christine knew that she was praying. For a long five minutes there was no sound.

Then there was a knock on the door, and the girl's eyes opened, and the radiant color flooded her face.

"Come in, Alan!" she said.

"Well, how is my patient?" Alan asked, shaking hands "How do you do, Mrs. Knight? Chrissie, I think this sort of thing agrees with you—you're getting good-looking!"

"Oh, don't raise false hopes in me, doctor!" Christine laughed in her exquisite low voice. Mrs. Knight, stiff and old and unhappy, rose stiffly to her feet. She must be going, she said.

Alan took her politely to the elevator. But before she had reached her waiting motor car outside, he and Chrissie had forgotten her very existence.

THE BOY SCOUTS AND THE CUBS.

One day some boy scouts whose names were Tom and Will, were going out to have a little exciting adventure. As they walked along they talked about the beautiful large woods in which they camped. All of a sudden Tom saw something in a distant hill. They said that they would come exploring the next day.

The day after the boys had been on their walk they came back to explore what they had seen the day before. To their surprise they saw a cave. They walked all around and then went in.

After the boys had gone in the cave to their astonishment they saw two cubs. Each boy took a cub and left the cave. Just as they arrived at the mouth of the cave they saw the mother coming along. The boys began to run. At last they came near to a large tree and hid behind it. The mother bear went in and when she found her babies gone she came out to look around for them. The boys began to run for they saw the bear heading their way. The next day the boys brought the cubs back for they thought of how the mother bear would feel to have lost her babies The boys visited the cave quite often. They became great friends with the bear.

THE SHOWER-PROOF COAT.

In these times, when the only and olden game is the first love of our salad days and the last love of our twilight hours, it is amusing to recall that in 1457 the Scottish Parliament "decreted and ordained that gowf (golf) be utterly cryit nown and noch usit." That was just before King James, the Fourth, swung his driver on Blackheath and hit the ball that flew around the world.

The golfiac declares that there is but one time to play the game, and that is always. Doubtless he is right. Certainly, the amazing popularity of golf has had a deep and far-reaching influence upon men's dress, introducing many innovations and ingenuities which, without golf as a spur to designers, would never have been thought of.

One of these is the 3-button, shower-proof coat, pictured in the accompanying sketch. Made of tan rubberized cloth and with Raglan shoulders and storm collar, such a coat is frequently ventilated through air holes under the arms. It is short and very light, taking up the minimum of room in bag or locker and rolling out of its creases if shaken briskly. In addition to golf, this sort of garment is admirable for horseback and for sailing, motor-boating, camping and a score of summer sports. The same type of garment is also procurable in the full-length style for all-day, every-day use.

Keeping dry would seem to come natural to Americans inasmuch as their throats are so well accustomed to it. Yet, we are not keen to carry an umbrella or wear a shower-proofed coat. Nevertheless every man should own a protective garment of this sort, keeping one at his place of business and one at home or in his club locker for an emergency.

Similarly, every man should own a feather-weight felt sporting hat with the brim made to flip down all around, as illustrated here. This may be also obtained shower-proofed. Thus, equipped with a water-shedding coat and a water-shedding hat, rain and sun look alike to the thorough-paced sportsman. He doesn't need to cock his weather eye at the sky.

This time Pinkie pinched his brother so hard he let out an Indian war whoop and jumped out of bed. Looking up, Twinkle saw Pinkie laughing and shaking all over like a plate of jelly. Presently Pinkie said, "Hurry up, we are going for a ride in our Oak-leaf airship and I can't wait all year for you."

After breakfast the boys boarded their airship and were soon sailing way up in the air. When they were sailing around in the air the cruel north wind saw them and decided to have what he called "sport." In a minute the airship was twirling around and out fell Pinkie and Twinkle.

"Oof!" cried Pinkie, who had fallen on his fat little stomach. Looking around he saw his brother walking slowly toward him. A robin attracted by Pinkie's shout when he fell, came and after Pinkie and Twinkle told him what had happened the robin took the brothers home and they were soon in their cottage where they told their mother of their adventures.

I had pains in my abdomen and in the female organs, and my stomach bothered me. My husband saw Lydia E. After taking one bottle I was able to eat, and after six bottles I was doing my own work, which I hadn't been able to do for years. # Things they Ask the Tribune

BUREAU OF INFORMATION

Among the many questions sent into The TRIBUNE Information Bureau are the following:

"Can you tell me what is the difference between a Judean and an Israelite?"

There is no difference whatever as far as race goes as they are both Jews. They are descended from the same people, but from different tribes.

"Will you kindly publish in the Information column the reason why canned fruits turn brown in jars when the fruit is white when it is put in?"

Very often the fruit is allowed to stand too long after it is peeled. According to one of the large canneries, if pears are dipped in a weak solution of salt and water and then washed off with cold water a great deal of the discoloration can be avoided.

If the fruit turns dark after it is put in the jars scientific men suggest that this might be caused from the action of light on the fruit. No scientific explanation seems to be available for this problem.

"What is the derivation of the word cafeteria?"

The word cafeteria is from the Mexican word Cafeteria, a store where coffee is sold retail.

"How do you pronounce the word Don Quixote?"

The Spanish pronunciation is Don-ke-ho-te, the accent on the ho. The English pronunciation is Don-kwiks-ot, accent on the kwiks.

"In what year was the State Capitol building at Sacramento built, and what did it cost?"

The State Capital building was commenced in 1860 and completed in 1874. The cost of the building was two million dollars.

The TRIBUNE Information Bureau will answer all questions of a general nature except school or legal problems, debates, trade and time of day.

If answers are desired by mail stamps must be enclosed. Quick results can be obtained by telephoning to the bureau. If you have any problems of a general nature to solve, ask The TRIBUNE Information Bureau, Lakeside 6000.

MY VACATION.

We went to the big trees in the Santa Cruz mountains for our vacation. There were six of us, my [illegible] and my friends and me.

We lived in a tent. The first day we got there we spent exploring the grove. The biggest trees were surrounded by a fence. My mother got poison oak, every day we went in swimming in the San Lorenzo river. One morning we were getting wood for a bon fire and I saw a squirrel and I chased him so far I nearly got lost.

There was a magpie hollering and woke us up early in the morning. A wee bird had a nest with three baby birds in it. There were wild canaries too, some people said there were polecats, but I never saw any.

How to Write 'Local Lafs'

By the Local Laf Editor

Man fails to see his own failings and inconsistencies, but he is ever ready to point out those of women. I suppose women are the butt of so many jokes because most of them are written by men.

At any rate, women's inconsistencies are never failing sources of mirth.

To the funny man it seems very illogical that the daughter should put in the whole morning developing her hips and bust, while the mother should devote the matutinal period to reducing her hips and bust.

Of course, a mere husband was astounded when his wife chased him out of the house with a rolling pin and then cried because he left without kissing her good-bye.

Bride: I'm going home to mother. I never want to see you again.

Husband: All right, here's your fare.

Bride (sobbing): But you haven't given me enough for a return ticket.

Woman, the unfathomable, is responsible for many of our sagest philosophical utterances.

Student: I don't know what to do to get the most out of life—whether to fall in love with a great problem or a beautiful woman?

Philosopher: Why not choose the latter and get both?

Woman always wants to get the most for her money except when she's buying a bathing suit.

CHURCH and FRATERNAL NEWS

Education of Heart To Be Boy's Theme

"Wonderful" will be the subject of the sermon by Ernest W. Gellatly, 23-year-old evangelist, at Grace Tabernacle, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. At 7:30 p. m. he will speak on the theme "Can a Christian Dance?"

At a recent meeting Gellaty said: "The average youth is educated mentally and neglected spiritually. What we need today is more education from the collar button down, and less up. It is the education of the heart that is being neglected and Dick Loeb in Chicago is an example of too much mental and no heart education. Loeb says, there is no God, no hereafter, and if there is a hereafter he will penetrate the veil. How foolish for this young man to talk thus, when he may be in eternity in but a few days or weeks. Who is to blame? The church of course. She has departed from the True and living Word and is following after all sorts of idols of philosophy. If all the ministers were preaching the Bible and God's love I would be out of a job, the devil would be in the hospital and hell would be for rent. Why don't young people go to church? Because they don't get the very thing they want, the truth. God help the church to get back to her place of power for the sake of our wandering youth."

HOME MISSION SOCIETY DOES MEXICO WORK

One of the most interesting developments of the work of the American Baptist Home Mission Society has been among the Mexicans. The great problem has been to get competent leaders and sufficient funds to keep pace with the expanding opportunities. The Society has under appointment 541 missionaries, including 301 teachers in mission schools and colleges. These workers may be found in nearly every state of the Union as well as in Latin North America. Their labor among 22 foreign-speaking racial groups, including the Mexicans in the Southwest, and 14 Indian tribes. The problem of reaching Mexico's 15,000,000 population is one of training native leaders. The most important work which the Society has in Mexico is a Theological Seminary and a Boys' high school at Saltillo, supported jointly by Northern and Southern Baptists. There are 30 young men preparing to be pastors. The Boys high school is overflowing and the boards hope to obtain the money to erect more buildings and employ more teachers.

In the 357 Bible schools on home mission fields in Latin American countries, 13,001 pupils were enrolled during the year ending April 30 1924. In Porto Rico the increase in average attendance amounted to 1000; during the previous year the increase was the same. There were 1013 baptisms during the year just closed. Most of the native pastors in Cuba have been trained in the widely-known Colegios Internacionales at Christo, founded in 1907. It has had a steady growth in numbers, efficiency, grade of work and popularity. It has the confidence of the best people of Eastern Cuba and has boundless possibilities before it if the number of its buildings can be increased.

Healing will be demonstrated by the bishop at this service.

BROTHERHOOD OF YEOMEN FORMING FANCY DRILL TEAM

Bonita Homestead No. 6423, Brotherhood of American Yeomen, is organizing a fancy drill team under the supervision of Paul Smyth, assisted by Charles Willitt. When completed this team will be the only one of its kind in the northern part of the state. Bonita Homestead will be in a position in a short time to furnish to the city or any organization a representation in parades with a full robed degree team as well as a uniformed drill team.

Many favorable comments on the work of the degree team were made at last Saturday night's meeting, when the Homestead and visitors celebrated "Past Foreman's" night with a full house. The following foremen were guests: Mrs. Lillian Fletcher, past foreman of Sacramento and manager of the Coast office in Oakland; O. E. Williams, past foreman of Kansas City, Mo., and now district manager of Alameda and Contra Costa counties; O. A. Crooks, past foreman of Salt Lake City; Charles Willett, past foreman of St. Joseph, Mo., now a member of Bonita Homestead; Joseph Jordan and Mrs. Ivy Thompson of San Leandro.

Nine new applications for membership cards were favorably voted on. Refreshments were served by Mrs. W. L. Gray and her committee.

GIBBONS KNOCKS OUT BLOOMFIELD IN THIRD ROUND

MAILS CREDITED WITH SECOND VICTORY OF WEEK AS OAKS EVEN SERIES WITH VERNON

Spence Adams Hero With Bat As Acorns Win

Rally in Ninth Scores Three Runs to Tie Count; Mails Again Mound Victor.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 9.—Getting a ball club down and keeping one that way are two different and distinct things, and the Vernon Tigers found this out, much to their sorrow yesterday, when the Oaks, trailing 7 to 4 going into the ninth inning, staged a rally which netted three runs, sufficient to tie the score—and then capped the climax by winning out in the tenth inning 8 to 7.

Spencer Adams was the outstanding figure in the Oakland victory yesterday.

Twice in the pinch Spencer Adams came to the plate when a hit meant a run and in both cases responded. In the ninth it was his single which chased in two runs, and in the tenth he drove in the winning run with his third hit of the day.

WHIRLWIND FINISH.

These events provided a whirlwind finish which swept the Bengals off their feet and left them dizzy from the suddenness of the attack.

The ninth inning rally was a sad, sad affair for "Wee" Ludolph, who had things somewhat his own way, keeping the Oaks from the pan with marked success since the fourth frame, when they had tied the count for the first time.

But Ludolph reckoned not with the hitting strength of the foe, nor the strategy of Boss Howard, as wily a leader as one could ask for in a rally.

Not satisfied with urging his hired help on in their struggle to overcome a three-run lead in the ninth frame, Howard shouldered a bat and marched to the plate to take an active part in proceedings.

The big blow up of Ludolph came to pass something after this fashion. Cather had been retired as a starter, when McCarren, who sat in at third base from the fourth frame on in place of Al Maderas, boomed a double to left. A bit unnerved, Ludolph walked Baker.

IVAN IN PINCH.

Whereupon Ivan Howard outguessed everyone by stepping into the situation and rapping a sharp single to right to ...

Still under the impression that it was but a passing shower of trouble, Essick allowed Ludolph to remain in the picture. The illusion was dispelled quickly when Spencer Adams drove one to center out of reach of everyone, on which McCarren and Baker scored. Exit Ludolph; enter Thomas.

Wasting no time on preliminaries, Brubaker greeted Thomas with a single to chase Manager Howard across and the count was tied Guisto followed with still another single, but here Thomas got his bearings and whiffed Arlett, while all cushions were loaded, and Lafayette was an infield out to end the inning.

Having seen Kunz and Murchio encounter difficulties, Howard switched the order of events and sent the "Great" Mails back to finish the game, and finish it he did.

The Tigers were retired in order in their half of the ninth and the customers settled down for the extra period.

Their settling was short lived, however. Cather started Thomas on his way with a single, and McCarren followed with another, but trouble was momentarily averted when Menoskey's throw to Griffin found Cather napping off second.

Baker tagged one for a single immediately after, but the air cleared a bit when Mails fanned.

ADAMS A HERO.

Spencer Adams, hero of the ninth inning rally, was again the man-of-the-minute, his single chasing McCarren in with what proved to be the winning run. Exit Thomas. Enter Groat.

Groat's first official act was to walk Brubaker, filling the bases. Guisto popped out and that was that.

Against Mails in the tenth the Tigers were helpless. With Murphy retired, Deal reached second, Mails heaving his infield hit away in a desperate effort to nip him at first. McDowell and Griffin fell by the wayside and the "Great" Mails had chalked up his second win of the week to even the series.

Earlier in the pastiming it appeared as though it were to be a Tiger day. The Oaks marked with one in the first when Adams led off with a double and took third after Brubaker had flied out, and scored by working a double steal with Guisto, who had walked.

Four runs in the third for the Tigers changed the outlook for the Essick men, but Ludolph was unable to hold the Acorns for long and they tied the count in the fourth.

Two more were scored off Kunz in the sixth by Vernon and Murchio, who relieved Kunz in the seventh, was greeted with another.

And with everything pointing to a quick getaway for the customers, the Oaks stepped out as before related and did things to Ludolph, which, to say the least, were far from charitable.

Canada Wins Over Japanese Stars

MONTREAL, Aug. 9.—Willard Crocker and Jack Wright, Canada's young Davis cup team, yesterday defeated Sunao Okomoto and Takeichi Harada, the Japanese combination, in straight sets of 7-5, 6-4, 6-3. The play was exceptionally fast, all four contestants repeatedly electrifying the spectators with their brilliant volleying.

Although the second and third sets were stubbornly contested, the Canadians consistently held the advantage.

Japan now has two points to Canada's one. The Canadians must win both matches today to capture the title.

Record Fish Is Landed Off Santa Catalina

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 9.—H. J. Mallen, Los Angeles business man and sportsman, yesterday, caught a 528-pound swordfish off Santa Catalina Island. It is said to be the largest of its kind ever captured with a rod and line.

The swordfish was twelve feet, six inches long and four feet, ten inches in girth. His bill was forty-eight inches long.

The monster fought for over forty-five minutes, and was not finally subdued until after he had knocked in the side of the boat and disabled the propeller in his last lunge.

Last Night's fight results

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 9.—Babe Herman of Los Angeles won by a unanimous decision of the judges over King Leopold of Oakland in the ten round main event here last night. Herman broke his left hand in the second round and did not really start until the fourth, but from then on he led all the way.

Frankie Grandette, of Hollywood showed remarkable gameness when he got a draw from Billy Mascott of Portland after being knocked down for the count of nine in the first round.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 9.—Eddie O'Dowd, Columbus, Ohio, bantamweight, won a decision over Eddie McKenna of New Orleans, in a fifteen round bout here last night.

COMPTON, Aug. 9. — Pico Ramles of Los Angeles defeated Joe Pimenthal, also of Los Angeles, in the main event of a boxing card here last night.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 9. — Johnny Adams of San Bernardino, Pacific coast lightweight champion, won a decision over Johnny Trambitas of Portland, Pacific Northwest title claimant, in the main event at Hollywood American Legion arena last night.

In the semi-windup Eddie White, San Francisco lightweight, defeated Young McGovern of New Orleans.

Oakland Elks To Meet With Alameda Team

Interest Among Fans Growing for Contest at Coast League Park.

With the second round of play reached tomorrow in the Elks baseball league, the Oakland Elks Lodge No. 171 will meet the crack Alameda nine at the Oakland Coast league park in what should be the feature game of the race.

Rivalry between the two teams is unusually keen. Last Sunday the local Elks took the Sacramento team into camp with ease at Sacramento while Alameda was losing out to San Francisco after having piled up a big early lead.

Previous to the starting of the league the Oakland team engaged in a successful practice season, meeting some of the best bush teams in the central part of the state.

Manuel Duarte, manager of the Alameda aggregation, also had a successful practice season and will present a strong team in the line-up when the two teams meet. Alameda lost their first start to San Francisco last week when the transbay organization scored a run in the tenth and beat them out 8 to 7.

During the pre-season games, the Island City team defeated Healdsburg, which ranks as one of the best amateur teams in this section, while Oakland lost to the same team earlier in the year.

The Oaks, however, have won the majority of their games and have several big league players in their lineup.

Tommy Fitzimmons, formerly of Brooklyn; Denny Wilie, former Oak; "Speed" Martin, ex-Cub, and "Toots" Bankhead, of the Texas League, being among the athletes who have seen action in high class leagues.

Al Harmon, relief hurler for the Oakland team, pitched for the first division in the A. E. F. league during the war and met with great success. He is an able pitcher to assist Martin in the mound work.

Both Alameda and Oakland lost close decisions to San Mateo and the latter team was defeated by the Stockton's Doans in the early part of the season. A victory over Santa Cruz after they had won eight straight games, and a 13 to 6 win from Burlingame, were also among the achievements of the Oakland nine.

Latest reports from Alameda show that the interest is growing for the contest Sunday, and a large delegation of Alameda rooters will be on hand to hold separate contests on the sidelines with the Oakland enthusiasts.

San Francisco will play at Sacramento in the other league contest.

Favorites Win in Wilshire Tourney

GOLF

By W. D. McNICOLL.

W. L. Johnstone, president of the Lake Chabot Golf club, this morning announced that play in the two-ball foursome sweepstakes tournament at handicap tomorrow on the links of the Lake Chabot club would start early in the morning and requested all club members participating to be at the clubhouse as close to 7 o'clock as possible.

The tournament committee decided to make no reservations for starting times, leaving it to the foursomes to arrange their own time but members of the committee will be on hand to take care of the arranging of club foursomes that desire to play at the early hour.

Johnston said that the committee's decision had been that it would be necessary for club players to play in foursomes with other club members.

Members of the Lake Chabot club will gather next Thursday night at 8 o'clock at the Park Boulevard clubhouse for the first annual smoker, at which time trophies for the recent Independence Day tournament will be presented.

A program has been prepared for the evening to follow the presentation of the prizes to the winners.

In the women's weekly contest at Sequoyah yesterday, Mrs. A. E. Lorber had the best score in a blind 9 tournament at handicap, the winners' score was 42-9-33, ten strokes ahead of her nearest opponent. Mrs. C. G. Knight was second with a card that read 52-9-43.

In the class B flight Miss Katherine Hibbard won first prize with a net score of 43. Mrs. F. L. Dettman who finished second to Miss Hibbard had a score of 56-12-44.

Peter Cirrelli won in the other semi-final from Dody Simms at the 17th 2 up.

In the second flight Vernon Gilford continued his victorious career, beating Leslie Regaliar at the 17th green. John Gasparini won his way to the final by a victory over Walter Journer by a margin of 2-1.

Athlete Says Finnish Stars Over Trained

"Nurmi Looked Like an Old Man," Says American Olympic Star.

By WALTER CAMP.
BY CONSOLIDATED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—With the return of the Olympic athletes we are getting some new lights on these games. Hennigan, who is just back, reports that the food at the Yank training quarters was not what most of the men wanted and there were too many coaching difficulties.

This is rather unimportant at this time compared with his comment on the Finnish athletes. He believes they are prematurely aged through their methods of training and the severity of it.

He described Nurmi and Stenroos as looking like old men and says that Willie Ritola has developed varicose veins in his legs. Nevertheless, he believes Nurmi can break his mile record and will do so. This will cause the public over here to be all the more anxious for a visit from this remarkable Finn.

We have many unrecorded remarkable performances, but two of the latest look reasonable. One of these is the report that Nurmi, the Finn, covered the mile in four minutes eight seconds and another is that Ned Gourdin jumped 25 feet 8 inches the day after Legendre did his 25 feet 6 inches.

Both are quite within the range of possibility. Hubbard is the only man yet who has bettered 25 feet twice in actual competition but any one of this trio has it in him to approximate 26 feet, strange as such a statement would have appeared in 1920.

Here is the way a real sports woman put it: "I saw Mlle. Lenglen play one set. That was against Elizabeth Ryan at Wimbledon and she is marvellous. I would not have a chance to beat her. She is far better than any woman I ever saw play." And it is that appreciation that leads one to believe that Miss Helen Wills will go to the very top of the ladder not only in her game, but in the esteem of the tennis world.

TeamsSee-Saw Into Lead of American Race

Giants Have Lead of Nine Games Over Rivals in National League.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—So far as ground-gaining ability goes, entries in the American league derby are almost as helpless as merry-go-round horses. Although Detroit increased its chances of overtaking New York by winning while the Yankees were losing, the world champions today still lead by one game. Washington marked time in third place during a rainstorm and St. Louis continued in the grip of its form reversal, dropping a third straight contest to the last place Athletics.

Five home runs featured the hot game between New York and Cleveland, the latter emerging from the melee with a 10 to 8 victory. Ruth banged out his 37th and 38th circuiters.

Burying three Boston pitchers under an avalanche of hits, Detroit romped off with a 14 to 5 win.

Manager Sisler was unable to find one pitcher in five capable of putting the quietus on Philadelphia batters and the Athletics won 9 to 5.

The Giants not only lead their league by nine games and a half but also are developing into champion winning-streak breakers. Cincinnati, after piling up six successive triumphs, lost to New York, 9 to 3.

Pittsburgh took Philadelphia 1 to 0 in a pitchers' duel.

Ragged support counteracted fair twirling by Barnes and gave Chicago an easy 10 to 7 decision over Boston.

The Brooklyn Robins were so prodigal of a nine-run lead that they were fortunate to defeat St. Louis, 11 to 9.

Baseball Fodder

Spencer Adams hit the ball hard in the Oaks' victory yesterday; he got three safeties out of six attempts.

Manager Ivan Howard served as a pinch hitter to perfection yesterday when he batted for Murchio, singled filling the bases and scored on Brubaker's single to left.

Brubaker, Arlett and McCarron each collected two hits during the game to co-star with Adams at the bat.

Buz Arlett had a queer day yesterday, getting a hit or striking out every time up. He fanned the first time and then countered on the next attempt by knocking one for a circuit. In the fifth he singled and then struck out the next two times at bat.

Lafayette was the only player who started in the lineup who did not get a hit during the game.

Jimmy McDowell, who hit three homers yesterday, went hitless before the shoots of Kunz, Murchio and Mails.

In the tenth inning, four singles were needed to score the winning run. Cather and McCarron singled Cather being caught off second, Baker singled sending McCarren to third and Adams came through with the fourth hit of the inning to send McCarron across with the winning run.

Warner, who was the hero of the day on Tuesday with a home run among the four hits he collected, went hitless yesterday.

Mexico Is Defeated By Australian Team

BALTIMORE, Aug. 9.—Australia advanced another rung in its climb for the right to meet the United States in the international tennis battle for the Davis cup when it defeated Mexico here yesterday in the doubles.

Gerald Patterson and Pat O'Hara Wood turned back Ignacio Borbolla and Francisco Gerdes in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4, 6-0.

Coupled with Thursday's two victories in singles, yesterday's match gave the Australians three matches, or a majority.

Wills and Richards To Pair in Doubles

BOSTON, Aug. 9.—Miss Helen Wills, of Berkeley, Cal., and Vincent Richards, of New York, will appear as partners in the national mixed doubles championship. Play in this event will be run off in connection with the national doubles championship during the week of August 18.

British Boxer No Match for U. S. Opponent

Bell Saved Bloomfield From Being Counted Out in 2nd; 100,000 See Fight.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

WEMBLEY STADIUM, LONDON, Aug. 9.—Tom Gibbons, American light heavyweight, knocked out Jack Bloomfield, English aspirant for heavyweight honors, in the third round of their scheduled 20-round bout in the stadium here this afternoon.

The bell saved Bloomfield from being knocked out in the second round.

The American floored his British opponent three times in the second round, the bell saving Bloomfield on the third knockdown, after which his seconds had to drag his limp form through the ropes to his chair for the intermission.

The great crowd—almost 100,000 persons—cheered Gibbons. It was a typically impartial and sporting British assembly.

Bloomfield went out groggy for the third round and Gibbons floored him with a left to the head and a right to the chin. The Britisher went down for the count of four and got up bleeding from the nose and staggering.

Gibbons laced into Bloomfield with ferocious hooks to the head as soon as the Britisher got to his feet and dropped him with a left for the count.

It was a right uppercut landing squarely on Bloomfield's chin in the second round htat really settled the issue. From then on Bloomfield was groggy and directly afterward went down for the count of six.

When the Britisher arose Gibbons smashed him with hard rights and lefts to the head and Bloomfield went down for the count of nine. As soon as he got to his feet Gibbons downed him for the third time.

The only blows Bloomfield landed during the entire fight were two light taps to the head in the first round and two wild slugging swings in the third. Gibbons left the ring without a mark on his body.

In the first round the American fighter attacked constantly. The Englishman was impassive, almost immobile, in the center of the ring but he defended himself well except for a right hook to the body which Gibbons landed almost every time he attempted it.

In the second minute of the second round Gibbons feinted with a left to the body and then planted a right uppercut squarely on hte Briton's jaw. Bloomfield did not drop to the floor at the time but it was this blow that beat him and he was wholly unable afterward to ward off the hurricane blows which Gibbons shot at his head.

Round-by-Round On Gibbons Bout

ROUND ONE.

They clinched. Immediately Gibbons started a series of right jabs. Gibbons forced the fighting. Bloomfield countered to the body, but did not hurt the American. Gibbons' round.

ROUND TWO.

They went into a clinch at once. Bloomfield was holding on. Both exchanged punches. Gibbons landed strong right jabs. Bloomfield tried to ward them off. Bloomfield was floored, taking the count of five. Bloomfield was again knocked down, taking the count of nine. Gibbons' round.

ROUND THREE.

Gibbons rushed at Bloomfield and the Englishman began holding. Gibbons shook him off and landed a terrible right hook on the jaw. The blow knocked Bloomfield through the ropes. Bloomfield tried desperately to get up, but could not. He was lifted back into the ring. The knockout came in the first minute of fighting in this round.

TWO RATHER DISTURBING INSTANCES

American citizens resident of or doing business in foreign countries have been wont to compare the respect manifest toward citizens of this country with that shown citizens of other nations. This has been especially so of Mexico. There is not likely to be an overplus of respect for any foreign country—or even their own, for that matter, by a considerable native contingent—but the difference has always been marked between the way American rights and demands have been treated and English rights.

It would appear to be so in other countries. At least two recent occurrences unfortunately point that way. The murder of an American woman in Mexico and the assassination of Consul Imbrie in Persia go farther than is relishable in proving the contention. American citizenship does not seem to inspire the respect in some foreign countries that for instance British citizenship does. The reason why may be that trait of everybody looking out for himself that seems to be inherently American. When an American's rights are infringed, or his life taken, too often there is parley and delay over the reckoning. In similar British emergencies there is instant action. Cases are not uncommon where a warship has been sent to redress individual injury.

The difference may be due to settled diplomatic conditions. The diplomatic corps of England is trained, and there are centuries of precedents to guide action. This country is new, and its diplomacy has been too much haphazard and political. Consuls and government agents have been sent to foreign countries who not only could not speak the language but were not en rapport with the customs and traditions. That improvement in this respect is beginning is seen in Persia's quick response to demands for punishment of the assassins and reparation. When our diplomatic machinery does get into action it commands respect.

No doubt conditions will improve as our importance as a world power becomes more thoroughly realized by the nations of the earth. The statement may not be flattering to the national vanity, but there is some warrant for saying that this nation did not occupy its just place on the world map till it performed in the world war.

David Wark Griffith is having his troubles in England with "America." First of all he deleted about eight or ten reels in order to remove scenes that might be offensive to the British. Then the title was changed to "Love and Sacrifice." Now the British Board of Film Censors, an unofficial body, has banned it. The board of censorship is said to be financially supported by London exhibitors, but has no connection with the Lord Chamberlain's office. Meanwhile plans are being made to exhibit the film on September 1 at the Scala in London.

The bandit menace deserves more especial attention. The news columns carry accounts of a defiant gang ensconced in a mine for safety, with no known method of dislodging them except sulphur fumes; and of another gang capturing an Iowa town, cutting the wires, and looting it at their leisure. It isn't an original observation but it is timely: What are we coming to?

---

It required 365 Pullmans to accommodate the throngs that desired to see the horses go round on the Kentucky Derby occasion, but only 200 for those who journeyed to New York on the occasion of the Democratic National Convention. Room here for the columnist to get busy.

Persons born in Italy and living in the United States according to the census of 1920, numbered 1,610,113. If are added the children born here of Italian parents (1,721,761) the group comprises a total of 3,331,874. At least 70 per cent of this number have made their homes in the Atlantic Coast states, although there are many important Italian centers in Ohio, Illinois and other Central States as well as California. The total number of naturalized Italians was 419,723 in 1920, but they have for many months stood highest among all immigrant groups in completing their citizenship.

CONCERNING MIGRATORY BIRDS.

In response to numerous petitions recommending an immediate reduction in bag limits on wild ducks and geese, Secretary Wallace of the Department of Agriculture announces that since the first Migratory Bird Law became effective, March 4, 1913, the department has received communications from nearly every section of the country, indicating a very substantial increase in migratory birds, particularly wild ducks and geese.

Secretary Wallace states, however, that some persons assert that migratory birds, especially migratory wild fowl, while having increased greatly in numbers for some years after the Migratory Bird Law became effective, have really decreased during the past few years, and that impressions of an increase are gained because some of the birds now are concentrated in existing areas untouched by the drainage operations that have destroyed such a large portion of their former homes.

In order that the Migratory Bird Treaty, Act and Regulations may be efficiently administered, the department constantly seeks and is receiving information concerning migratory bird conditions, and will continue to acquire additional data on this subject.

The National Outdoor Recreation Conference adopted a resolution recommending suitable reductions in bag limits where necessary and Mr. Chauncey J. Hamlin, chairman of the Executive Committee of the Conference, at the request of the committee, has requested the department to carry on an investigation to determine whether waterfowl are increasing or decreasing in the United States. In compliance with this request, the Biological Survey of the department has sent out a questionnaire to conservation societies, sportsmen's and game protective associations, State and provincial game departments, and the game wardens of the Biological Survey, its collaborators, and its scientific observers, to obtain up-to-date information concerning the present status of migratory birds and the condition of their breeding, feeding, and resting places.

THE "OLD KENTUCKY HOME."

The Kentucky mountains of John Fox, Jr., have disappeared. At least that is what the world is assured by Professor Darrell Haug Davis of the University of Minnesota, who has been making a survey of conditions in Kentucky and finds the situation quite unlike that described by Fox.

Kentucky has long been noted for its lovely women and speedy horses, and on the stage and in novels it has gained considerable notoriety for its mountain feuds, moonshine, fire-eating youth and other backwoods traditions. All of which may have been true once, but repetition is a libel, the savant sets forth.

Professor Davis finds the Fox towns with brick hotels, hot and cold running water, some of them boasting $50,000 postoffices, pavements, electricity, fine schools, excellent homes and high moral standards. His survey is being published and will include a list of the resources of the mountain district, which are quite surprising.

For instance, of the original 45,000,000,000 board feet of merchantable hardwoods the majority came from Kentucky's eastern mountains. In these same mountains is a practically inexhaustible supply of coal, the production between 1916 and 1920 rising from sixteen to twenty-three million tons; between 1910 and 1923 the supply of oil increased from 468,000 to 8,500,000 barrels, and so on.

Professor Davis would even discount our belief of "mountain fastness where 'no one lives and the dawg ba'ks at strangers,'" with a pile of statistics showing that even deducting incorporated places with populations of 2500 or more, the Kentucky mountains have a population density of 48.8 to the square mile.

An item about a runaway accident, involving horses, has come to be a rarity. Such occurrences never did figure with the modern vehicle mishap, either in frequency or direful consequences. In this we have "progressed" as in so many other things.

ONE YEAR IN THE WHITE HOUSE.

Calvin Coolidge has completed one year as President of the United States. The twelve months just passed have been notable for many things, but without doubt the most interesting and agreeable has been the revelation of Mr. Coolidge himself. His lofty character, his unfaltering courage, his great capacity for his high office and his practical idealism have marked him as an exceptional man and a great president.

When Calvin Coolidge took the oath of office in his father's farm house at Plymouth Notch, Vermont, one year ago Sunday (August 3) the country knew but little about him. The comparative obscurity of the vice-presidency gave him little, if any, opportunity to reveal his unusual executive ability. He was never a publicity seeker and he preferred to perform his duties without a trace of show or ostentation.

The steady rise of Mr. Coolidge's popularity during the year now passed has been the outstanding political fact of our times. The better the people came to know Mr. Coolidge, the better they liked him. He breeds confidence. There is a widespread conviction that the man in the White House may be depended upon to do what he believes to be the best for the whole country. Once he is convinced that he is right, he follows his appointed course with resistless logic and with unswerving determination.—Seattle Times.

THE CONNING TOWER

AND WE THE PLAYERS.

1.

Are daily life and drama interlaced so tensely that the former must resort
To mimicking the stage? Is life debased
To such a depth that human beings court
The thespian muse in every word they utter,
And never voice a thought they really feel?
They sob; they histrionically mutter;
They eye the heavens; dazedly they reel . . .
Perhaps there was a time when drama sought
To cull from life the emblematic moods
Of ordinary men; but time has wrought
A vicious change. Today mankind all broods
On how it acted yesterday, and how
To act tomorrow; wrinkles pace its brow.

2.

A mother in a stuffed apartment scowls
With venom at her disobedient son;
She flings malignant imprecations, howls
To God to view the crime the culprit's done—
The crime of non-submission to a deed
A tyrant parent ruthlessly imposed.
She rages, rants and tears her hair—to bleed
His timid brain . . . Her lips are not yet closed:
She sees that he is frightened, trembling well.
Ah, mighty power is this! To make effect
With hot reproach and words! Her chidings swell
And brand the ingrate for his vile neglect.
She gleefully observes his coming swoon
And screams that he will be her death ere soon.

3.

Cool college boys parade the streets and chant
Their theories in careless cynic tone.
They sweep aside all sentimental cant
With subtle mot and epigram: they groan
In rending mockery at one who dares
To speak of simple unpretentious truth.
They pose as flawlessly—can mundane cares
Ever assail their rare precocious youth?
Remembering each second phrase to quote,
They fill the air with Chesterton and Wilde
(Though unacknowledged). Weird it is to note
Each airy, witty, worldly college child,
Really amazed with life and all its shocks,
Masking his wonder with a paradox.

Enshrined within staid offices that speak
Respectable success, the business men
Are seated. Such impressiveness. They reek
Their dignity, their ruling talent. When
The time to write a letter comes, they tap
Their massive heads in weighty rumination;
They shower hackneyed compliments, and cap
Their mad epistles with profound oblation:
"We beg, sir, to remain sincerely yours."
They pace about with self-complacent strut—
Theatrically perfect in their wars
Of high finance . . . All this is splendid, but Oh matchless sight—to see them, pompous, sage,
"In conference," each on his little stage.

Ecstatic ladies, breathless with delight,
Lend ear to every softly-murmured phrase
The poet breathes to them. In lyric flight
He croons white liquid syllables that daze
The hearers with their exquisite finesse:
He leans far back, his eyes correctly veiled.
His hair arranged in very careful mess,
His hands and cheeks appropriately paled,
And speaks his succulent effusions in Infallibly inveigling intonation.
No surfeit ever grips the femmine
Assemblage; they entreat a further ration.
And who would not applaud his voice and vesture
Or cry encore at each exotic gesture?

O budding writer, you who seek to know
That wistful thing called Life—where do you dream
To find it? In the streets where flow on flow
Of posers join to make an endless stream
Of acting? You are wasting glorious time:
Attend the first Dramatic School you see
And memorize each pose—become a mime
Yourself; then may you write quite skilfully.
I fancied I possessed the psychic power
To stand apart and mock the masking earth.
But I am fast succumbing; every hour
Brings near my fall: my present acrid mirth
Will change to smiles, correctly suave and smart,
And you will hear me mouth my studied part.

KEEPING UP WITH THE U. S. FLYERS

THE NATIONAL PRESS

Salt Lake Tribune: "To the younger generation of travelers, who today go from city to city, or from coast to coast, in palatial and luxurious trains, drawn by the giant modern passenger locomotives at a speed of from thirty to fifty miles per hour, it may be of more than passing interest to note that it was but ninety-five years ago that the first locomotive run was made in the United States. The exact date was August 8, 1829. The engine, named 'The Stourbridge Lion,' was one of four built [illegible] Hudson Canal Railway Company."

New York Commercial: "The country is full of fine examples showing the success of skillful advertising. The one thing that political publicists seem incapable of showing, when it comes to publicity, is intelligence of the right sort. Take party platforms, for instance. Not only are they too long, but they are couched in language which proves that they were written by lawyers and not advertising men. They should be written by advertising men."

Louisville Courier-Journal: "Three thousand strong, American lawyers who attended a reception at Buckingham Palace, where they were presented to the king and queen, had occasion there to observe Mr. Charles Evans Hughes walking arm-in-arm with King George through the palace grounds. The fact, however, is disclosed that each of these 3000 American lawyers wore a silk hat and a frock coat at this reception."

Cleveland Press: "Tomorrow is Sunday. Look out for the cars. It takes the train seven seconds, on the average, to pass the crossing. Take two seconds to look, and seven seconds to wait, if necessary. Just as well keep on living. Sundays are the days when motorists do not have time to look both ways when approaching a railroad grade crossing."

Seattle Times: "The recent rebellion in Brazil cost Sao Paulo approximately $7,500,000 in damages to buildings and to industrial machinery. In addition to this loss, the insurgents must reckon the loss of human life and the amount spent for arms and munitions. The [illegible] compensating benefits."

St. Paul Pioneer Press: "The National Women's party, with members canvassing eight states for congressional material, seeking feminine candidates in all parties everywhere, is back of an announced project to place 'One hundred women in Congress.' 'Women for Congress' is to replace 'Votes for Women.'"

Medford Mail-Tribune: "If citizens with rifles and suicidal tendencies barred from the hills during the deer season are disappointed, they can still stand firm on the railroad crossing, and try to convince the cowcatcher they are the Rock of Gibraltar."

Chicago News: "Fortunately there are some millions of voters in this country who cannot be delivered in bulk to any candidate or platform and who are determined to think things out for themselves."

Portland Oregonian: "If it were publicity he was after, Governor Bryan certainly got it with his declaration on Defense day. But we doubt if the reaction has been up to the Governor's expectations."

SPIRIT of the STATE PRESS

The first sweet potatoes have gone to the market from the Merced district and the growers received six cents a pound. This is a satisfactory price, but when you read the market reports in the metropolitan papers you see that the listing on the same sweet potatoes is 12 to 14 cents. Just what the price will be when it reaches the consumer is uncertain. Not being in the business, we cannot say whether or not the expense of handling from the grower to the retailer should double the price.—Merced Star.

Tracy's million dollar sugar factory is once more making sounds [illegible] of the community. With 200 persons on the payroll receiving $5000 weekly for their work and beet growers of the district finding a handy market for their product many will be benefited by the resumption of sugar-making in Tracy. The plant will run for 100 days and turn out approximately 3000 bags of sugar a day. The beets are grown between Stockton and Sacramento and on Union Island.—Stockton Record.

Professor Bioletti of the Viticultural department of the University of California, was in Oroville yesterday. Professor Bioletti is making a study of the Leggett vineyard grown on land formerly dredged by gold dredgers. Bioletti plans to write a bulletin dealing with the adaptability of these "rock pile" lands for growing early maturing grapes.—Oroville Register.

Baroness C. M. K. Von Balveren arrived in Redding from Denmark Saturday and will spend several days here on business and to visit old friends. She and her husband, now deceased, left Redding before the world war and went back to Denmark to spend the rest of their days. The Von Balverens owned a large ranch on the east side of the river and just below the Free bridge.—Redding Searchlight.

To honor the memory of Franklin K. Lane, former Secretary of the Interior, who was the first president of the Save the Redwoods League and a pioneer in the cause of preserving these giant trees, a magnificent redwood tract at Kettintelbe, Humboldt county, California, will be dedicated as the Franklin K. A judge sent a woman in Berkeley to jail for speeding through the streets at 3 o'clock in the morning at forty-five miles an hour, and to her plea that there would be nobody to care for her two children, he replied that she could leave them with the same person who cared for them while she was out in her car at midnight.—Turlock Journal.

It would be a good thing if two-thirds of our laws were repealed, a speaker said at the recent convention of Retail Credit Men's National association. Instead, thousands of new laws are being added each year. If they were all enforced nearly everyone would be in jail. Law-making is a national obsession. — Bakersfield Californian.

Salinas Valley lettuce is bringing a good price at present according to A. C. Hughes, chairman of the Agriculture committee of the Salinas chamber of commerce. He states that yesterday, (August 4), Ward Neckels shipped lettuce that brought the grower $3.50 per crate f. o. b. cars Salinas. While the shipments are not large at present, they are all bringing good money.—Salinas Index.

By EDGAR A. GUEST

MY WATCH.

I have a watch, a faithful watch which keeps the time for me;
And it has lived a goodly life, from all corruption free;
It has not ticked in evil ways, and
I am puzzled sore
Why they should sadly shake their heads in every jeweler's store.
Why do they, one and all declare when o'er my watch they've leaned,
"Good sir this is a dirty watch, and you should have it cleaned!"

I had it cleaned a month ago, and then the mainspring broke;
I took it to another man, who peered before he spoke;
And squinting at its tender works
and poking here and there,
He took the glass from out his eye
and whispered: "I declare,
This is, indeed, a splendid watch;
but, sir, from what I've gleaned
It's been full twenty years or more since you have had it cleaned!"

He gave my watch a bath, I think;
at least, for that I paid;
Then something else went wrong with it and to a store I strayed;
The watchman there was most polite, he hummed and hawed
a bit,
He jiggled this and jiggled that while diagnosing it;
He called his first assistant in, I saw them both confer,
And then the two of them exclaimed:
"Your watch needs cleaning, sir."

Think not I doubt the jeweler. His feelings I'd not hurt;
I merely wonder where it is my watch gets all the dirt;
I wear it on my breast all day, and when I go to bed
I place it with solicitude beneath
my drowsy head;
I guard it with parental care from all that may occur,
But still the experts say to me,
"Your watch needs cleaning, sir!"

A paragraph in the day's news, bearing a San Francisco date line, narrates that "for the first time since the Indians forsook the bow for the breech-loading rifle, an American deer was killed with an arrow Monday." It would scarcely be possible to compress more error into as many words. In the first place, the Indian did not forsake the bow for the breech-loading rifle, save in isolated instances, since their contact with our civilization was far earlier than that. They forsook it in bow for the muzzle-loading rifle. In the second place, many American archers of today have slain deer with bow and arrow. They have slain with the same weapon, as well, both black and grizzly bears, and cougar. So much in the interests of accuracy. —Portland Oregonian.

COST OF THE CAMPAIGN.

In spite of the announcement that this year's presidential campaign is being shortened on account of lack of funds, the statement is now made that the campaign, short though it may be, will cost the various parties in the neighborhood of $15,000,000. It is recalled that four years ago more voters stayed at home than went to the polls. This year each campaign director thinks his candidate will benefit most by getting this element out and a determined effort is to be made to this end. It is believed the total vote will go well past the 30,000,000 mark—Deseret News.

PERSONAL HEALTH SERVICE

By DR. W. A. BRADY.

FAT FOLK SHOULD BATHE.

I find it necessary at this juncture to abate a jot or tittle on the question of bathing. Fat folk should bathe at least twice a day, even thought perfectly clean. Yea, verily, three or four times a day if they mean to grow lean. This is not an indorsement of soap; we have an overstock of soap at our house. Abandon soap, all ye who entertain notion of washing away the too, too solid flesh. It's bad enough for the poor skin to put water on it so often.

While I am revising or moderating my teachings—and it saddens me now to discover that I am beginning to see how very radical some of my teachings have been—permit me to withdraw the facetious, impatient or sarcastic remarks I have uttered in regard to the use of epsom salts and other things in the bath for the purpose of reduction, and to say about that favorite diversion of the obese that the bath will reduce just as much with salts as without. Lest this seem somewhat cryptic, the idea I want to convey is that one is not likely to reduce appreciably by taking epsom salt baths unless one uses at least 200 pounds of salt for each bath and carries it in 50 pound hauls from the cellar, or unless one leaves epsom salt on the shelf and puts a good dash of pep in the bath.

If there is one way for the obese to become more so it is by dawdling, lingering, dozing or soaking in a warm or "hot" bath of any kind. If you're fat or fear becoming so it is far better to take no wet wash at all than to pamper your slacker flesh with a hot bath.

If you bathe at all in water, my fat friends—and fat people are certainly a doctor's good friends—make it snappy. First, be sure the water isn't comfortably warm. It should be so cold that your flesh fairly cringes at the approach of the dreadful ordeal and you have to whip yourself into the water. If this essential is properly attended to the other will take care of itself. The other essential is that the exposure be brief, the colder the water the shorter the bath. Even for obese persons past middle age this cold bathing is advisable, provided their arteries are not hardened.

Once more I condemn the common bath tub as an unnecessary utensil, though I can't prove it insanitary, and recommend instead the shower as the only kind of body washing equipment which should be installed in a modern home. Anything in the shower line from the sprinkling pot and a rubber mat to the most luxurious product of the plumber's art will serve the purpose. Live people ought to stand up and wash themselves. Sick people often need to be bathed lying down or sitting. No sane person wants to lie down for a cold bath; one just naturally likes to keep busy while undergoing the torture. I am thinking and speaking only about ordinary well people now. For invalids warm or hot baths are of great value in many cases. But we do not build our homes to provide facilities for the treatment of invalids, as a rule.

How cold should the daily two or four showers be for the obese? No matter. The colder the better, provided the reaction follows. If there is any feeling of chilliness or appearance of blueness or sense of depression following a cold bath it is harmful in any circumstances. The idea of cold baths for the obese is that such baths do or should stimulate and increase metabolism.

Standing on the bridge of the new steamship Catalina, William Wrigley, Jr., entered Avalon harbor Monday— taking his first ride on the new boat. When he bought Catalina Island in 1919 he did not see the island until after the deal had been closed. As he stood on the bridge of the Catalina, smiling and waving his hat to the throngs that were at the steamer pier to meet him, there appeared no expression of regret, either for the new million dollar vessel or with the Magic Isle itself. Mr. and Mrs. Wrigley left their Chicago home last week, and expect to remain in Avalon until the early part of September.—Catalina Islander.

FOREST FIRE RINGS TOWN IN FLAMES

Ranch Houses Destroyed by Blaze in Onward Sweep Through Sierra National Timber Land in Mariposa

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

FRESNO, Aug. 9.—Breaking from all control, two forest fires in Mariposa county brush land inside the Sierra National forest, were sweeping from opposite directions toward the town of Jerseydale, and destroyed buildings on at least three ranches in their path.

The first fire, which started in the Bootjack district, has traveled about eight miles to the Usona district and into a fine stand of second growth government timber. Among the buildings in the Usona district destroyed were the ranch home of Supervisor C. L. Booth, valued at from $5000 to $6000, and a ranch house belonging to E. C. Dutton of Oakland. Other ranches are within the fire lines and in danger.

The second fire which started at the state highway convict camp near Sweetwater, on the Merced river, presumably from a blast, is going south and has entered timber. Rangers estimate it has traveled about five miles, and is about four miles from Jerseydale. The Bootjack fire is about three miles on the other side of this town.

FIRE ON MOUNT BULLION.

A third fire is burning in Mariposa county on Mount Bullion near the town of that name and near Bear Valley and is reported out of all control raging through brush.

Brush fires which have been sweeping towards ranches and resorts at Oak Glen in the Angeles National forest east of here, are reported under control after burning over approximately 22500 acres.

A fire which has been burning for two days in the San Jacinto mountains southeast of here, swept over a road running from the Cahuilla Indian reservation to the south fork of the San Jacinto river and, fanned by a strong wind, was sweeping over foothills of the Santa Rosa range.

Nearly every available man of the Feather River and Clover Valley Lumber companys' logging and mill crews are battling against the forest fire that started in the timber owned by the former company near Portola last Wednesday.

WASHINGTON FIRE LOSS TOTALS $350,000.

PORT ANGELES, Wash., Aug. 9.—A check of losses to the Goodyear Logging camp of the Bloedel-Donovan Lumber company near Clallam Bay showed from $250,000 to $500,000 damage was done by a timber fire that has been burning for the past two days.

BAKER, Oregon, Aug. 9.—Two forest fires in Baker county have burned over about 2500 acres of timber, and are not yet under control.

Inspector Bans Construction of Incubator-Home

Asks Inventor's Arrest to Determine if Hatchery or Residence.

Alleging that Victor Pacheco is building an illegal three-room house with incubator attachment, on Kingsland avenue, City Deputy Building Inspector C. J. Heinemann today took out a warrant for Pacheco's arrest.

Heinemann first alleges that the house is built of old hard boards, crates, barrels, bits of lumber and anything else that came handy. In addition to this, he charges that the Pacheco mansion has a hole dug in the basement where the owner plans to install a stove or furnace, not only to heat the house but to hatch out chickens.

"This," says Heinemann, "is not only poor construction but it is outside the law. That is, no law yet devised has mentioned houses with incubator-furnace attachments.

"The chicken-incubator idea is new. The question arises as to whether this is a house or an incubator. If it's a house, it's all wrong. If it's an incubator, it's all wrong. I believe that the law can reach this edifice, under the regulations concerning houses or incubators, but not if the house-incubator is joined together in one complaint. My complaint, therefore, touches upon the house alone."

Pacheco, who has invented the incubator-attachment, says that inventors are not appreciated as they should be.

3 FINED $1000 ON DRY CHARGES

SAN LEANDRO, Aug. 9.—Fines totaling a thousand dollars were imposed by Judge W. J. Gannon on men arrested in liquor raids here yesterday. The raids were headed by Mayor Edwin Duck. According to Marshal J. F. Peralta the arrests and fines were the result of a general prohibition clean-up here.

Two thousand gallons of wine and a large quantity of "jackass" brandy were confiscated.

The first of the series of raids was at the home of John Camile, 294 Callan avenue. Camile's wife is said to have bombarded the mayor and other raiders with dishes. Camile was fined $250.

The home of Manuel Cunha, Hepburn and Hays streets, was next entered. Several visitors are said to have been drinking in his place. He was fined $500 for having liquor in his possession. This is said to be a second offense.

Candido Victorine, 619 Orchard avenue was arrested in his home. He was fined $250, but Judge Gannon suspended sentence for 90 days because Victorine has a large family. Deputy Marshal Edward Dyas and Assistant Marshal N. R. Mello assisted in the raids.

SAN LEANDRO MAYOR'S FAMILY HURT IN CRASH

Mrs. Edwin Duck, wife of Mayor Duck of San Leandro, is suffering from lacerations of one ear, and her 16-year-old daughter, Doris, has several minor injuries, as a result of an automobile collision at East Fourteenth street and Ninety-sixth avenue last night. The car in which Mrs. Duck and her daughter were driving was struck by a machine driven by A. Young, 1321 Sixty-second avenue, Oakland. The injuries were caused principally by falling glass.

VALLEJO, Aug 9.—John Sessarego, 338 Pennsylvania street, suffered a fractured skull from which he may die when his automobile struck a car parked beside the Napa highway. With him in his auto were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Greenwald, 312 Alabama street, and their two children, Thelma and Walter, and Mrs. Viola Lewis of 1670 Clay street, San Francisco. Mrs. Greenwald and Mrs. Lewis had ribs broken and Thelma Greenwald had her knee dislocated.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 9.—Patrolman Matthew Tierny sitting at the rear of the Bush street station's patrol wagon, suffered a lacerated scalp today in a collision with a machine driven by Dr. W. F. Blake, oculist of 516 Sutter street. The physician was arrested for reckless driving and Tierney's head was dressed at the Central Emergency hospital. The accident occurred at Turk street and Van Ness avenue.

DWARF GIRL WHO DRANK POISON DIES

Viola Foster Succumbs to Potion Taken Because of Love for Man Who Had Been Kind; Sad Case Told

BERKELEY, Aug. 9.—Death last night claimed Viola Foster, 29-year-old "dwarf" who drank poison on Thursday night at the Southern Pacific station at Third street and University avenue, because of love for a man who had been kind to her.

The girl had been often seized with "morbid" spells, and that she probably took poison in one of these moods of despondency, is the theory of Mr. and Mrs. Jack McGreen, 2946 Harper street, with whom she made her home. Miss Foster imagined herself in love with McGreer's brother, Archie McGreer, 36, a mining man of Plumas county, say the McGreers, after the girl had told a halting story of her infatuation to the police from her deathbed at Berkeley General hospital.

"The tragedy of her infatuation was evident," said the McGreers today. It was a sad case. We did all we could to help the girl, and took her in when her parents turned her out of their home. She has been like one of our family, and had she recovered we would have again taken her into our home."

Miss Foster was of dwarf physique and but little over 4 feet in height. The McGreers are making arrangements for the funeral of the girl today. Archie McGreer in Plumas county is ignorant as yet of the girl's death and also of any love which Miss Foster is declared to have professed for him.

The committee of arrangements, consisting of Irvin L. Gracier, president of the class, Hubert E. Hood, secretary, and Fred D. Kaiser, have made plans for the gathering.

One of the members of the class is now on his way home from Japan, a survivor of the earthquake and fire. Only five of the class are outside of California, and thirty-two are residents of Oakland and vicinity.

COLBOURN BACKS PLEA FOR 16 AUTOS

Reply to Moorehead Issued by Commissioner Saying Motorization of Health Department Is Economy

Replying to Commissioner Moorehead's denunciation of a request for 16 automobiles for the city health department, as asked in the coming budget, Commissioner Frank Colbourn today announced that it is the intention of the city to "motorize the health department and give its visiting staff some facilities."

Moorehead tallied 24 automobiles asked by the department of public health and safety, including the 16 asked by the health department.

"It's too much," says Moorehead. "The city is going into the auto business. We can't afford it. The total amount asked for all motor vehicles this year, by all departments, is $135,000, or six cents on the tax rate. I cannot approve of those requests."

Colbourn, however, asserts that the motorization means economy.

"Our health department has been hampered by lack of facilities to visit the various parts of the city," says Colbourn. "We must motorize the department. It means better health and better efficiency. The automobiles are mainly cheap ones. Moorehead is balking at what I consider a necessary investment."

Usury Is Charged In Answer to Suit

Insistence that the face of a note be made $35,000 when the real amount should be $26,000, in order that usurious rate of interest would be covered up, is charged against Hugh Hogan, millionaire lumber man, and his wife, Anna S. Hogan, in an answer filed in the superior court yesterday on behalf of J. H. and Edna S. Bolton.

The document was filed in connection with a suit brought by Hogan in which he asks that title to property at Fifty-seventh street and San Pablo avenue be quieted in him. He alleges that the Boltons borrowed $35,000 from him on the property and have failed to keep up their payments since last November.

The answer of the Boltons is that they in reality borrowed but $26,000 to complete payment on the property, which they bought for $60,000, paying one-half in cash. They charge that they were forced to accept a note for $35,000 upon which they were asked to pay 7 per cent interest, the $9000 being a bonus.

The Boltons ask that the court find that interest in full on the $26,000 has been paid and $6000 on the bonus. They ask judgment for three times this amount on the grounds that the law allows a person to recover treble the amount paid over and above the rate allowed by the usury law.

WOMAN BEATEN; TAXIMAN JAILED

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Mrs. Frank N. Doyle, wife of a Long Beach, Cal., horseman, with entries at the Hawthorne meeting, was confined to her bed today as a result of being badly beaten by a taxicab chauffeur. The chauffeur, besides paying a fine of $1000 today, began serving a year's term in jail.

Mrs. Doyle late yesterday engaged a taxicab driven by Aaron Deckelman. As she alighted to meet her husband Deckelman made an insulting remark. When she informed her husband the latter remonstrated. Deckelman knocked the woman down and then attacked Doyle. In the night court Judge C. G. Nauert imposed the limit. The further investigation of the incident was promised today, when attorneys for the cab company for which Deckelman worked declared the fine and sentence imposed is "railroad justice." They today prepared a writ of habeas corpus, declaring Deckelman had had no opportunity to present his side

CITY CAMP SEASON IS NEAR CLOSE

Oakland to Have Stopping Place for Hunters From October 1 Till the First Snow Falls at South Fork

Now that the summer season for the municipal camps is coming to a close, Superintendent Jay Nash of the recreation department announces that there will be a "hunting camp" maintained for venturesome nimrods from October 1 till the first snow at South Fork. The camp will lack the comforts of the summer season and will be merely a stopping place for the hunters. Accommodations will be rough.

The new Feather River camp closes August 22, to allow for construction work before winter. As soon as all the summer guests are gone carpenters will build several small storehouses and shacks.

According to Nash, there is a question of policy concerning the two camps. Many persons ask that the Feather River camp shall remain a quiet, rough-and-ready place, without too many conveniences, leaving the South Fork camp as a near-hotel equipped with everything that anybody might desire. In this way, says Nash, the city of Oakland could cater to two distinct types of campers. The recreation board will consider the matter at length.

COMMODITY NEWS

EXPLOSIVES.

JOPLIN, Aug. 9.—The Dupont de Nemours Company has purchased the plant of the General Explosive Company near here and will take immediate possession, operating to supply demand for high explosives in this section.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Railroads are urging consumers to buy their next winter's supply of coal at once. Production has been extremely low during the summer, they say, and an unusual burden is likely to be placed on the carriers when large production is resumed.

COTTON.

SHREVEPORT, Aug. 9.—Cotton receipts for the year ending July 31 totalled 114,565 bales compared with 74,256 for the previous year. The Louisiana Cooperative Cotton Marketing Association handled 31,000 bales at an average return of 24c a pound to sellers.

AUTOMOBILES.

DETROIT, Aug 9.—The automobile business here is gradually coming back. August is expected to make a much better showing than July and still further gains are anticipated in September.

TOBACCO.

ATLANTA, Aug. 9.—South Georgia towns now resemble boom mining towns with crowds surging into the bright tobacco auctions. Prices are ranging from 8 to 50 cents a pound for bright leaf with the bulk of transactions around 25 cents.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug 9.—It is now found that the first estimates of damage by drought to the Connecticut tobacco crop were too high. Late figures place condition at 80 per cent of normal.

GLASS.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 9.—Steadily increasing business features operations in the glass market here. Inquiries for building glass have quickened. There is a good call for certain grades of window glass.

GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—The exceptional downpours which deluged the farms of Wisconsin and northern Illinois recently caused thousands of dollars' worth of damage to small grains.

WOOL.

PORTLAND, Aug. 9.—Practically the entire 1924 wool clip of Oregon and Washington and northern Idaho now has passed out of the hands of producers. Leading dealers estimate that only about 100,000 pounds of wool remains to be cleaned up out of a total yield of about 18,000,000 pounds. Late sales were around 40 cents a pound.

RICE.

HOUSTON, Aug. 9.—The condition and progress of the rice crop on the Texas coast is reported good, although there has been some shortage of water due to heavy evaporation. The acreage is about 156,000 or 26 per cent less than last year.

DRYGOODS.

SEATTLE, Aug. 9.—There was a moderate increase in drygoods sales at local department stores in the last week. The turnover in some lines was not above that of a year ago, but better response was made to pressure of advertising and special sales.

LEATHER.

BOSTON, Aug. 9.—A local dealer in sheepskins reported today he had sold more hides this week than in the past four weeks combined and more than any similar period since the war.

BIG POWER PLANT.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 9.—A permit has been granted the Philadelphia Electric for construction of the first of its $12,000,000 generating plants which will be the largest of its kind. Stone and Webster have been awarded the contract.

Steel Demand Is Still Dull

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation on July 31, made public today, totalled 3,187,072 tons, a decrease of 75,433 tons under the total at the end of the preceding month.

Grain Prices Are Aiding Wholesalers

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 9.—Kansas City wholesalers report a further improvement in trade as a result of increased grain prices. This trend has made the volume of business for July higher than that of a year ago. Implement houses are optimistic, one house reporting an increase in sales of 20 per cent for the last month, compared with last year. Plows, harrows and two row wheat listers are in demand.

The country retail trade shows a radical change. The demand for cheaper prices which has existed since last October, it was thought, might mean that only cheaper grades of goods could be sold. The majority of the merchants, however, declined to stock the cheaper goods, as, although they lost some volume of business for a time, they are now benefiting by a sharply increased demand for standard grades of merchandise.

Production and Sales Balance

SEATTLE, Aug. 9.—Lumber production and sales in Western Washington and Western Oregon for 1924 up to August 1 were nearly balanced, according to a bulletin issued by the West Coast Lumbermen's Association here today. In the first 31 weeks of the present year the cut was 2,864,436,981 feet and the orders totaled 2,830,353,381 feet, the figures showed.

Sheep to Be Fed In Aleutian Islands

BEND, Ore., Aug. 9.—Sheep purchased in the Central Oregon country by G. M. Blakely, representing a group of Portland buyers, will be shipped to the Aleutian islands, off the coast of Alaska. Blakely plans to ship 10,000 sheep and 200 head of cattle to the islands this summer, he said.

LUMBER.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—The hardwood lumber business is showing improvements with increasing demands which have brought orders above production for some items.

EASTERN MARKETS

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—With reports at hand indicating that no frost damage had yet occurred in Canada and that the North Dakota crop was escaping any serious harm from black rust, the wheat market averaged lower in price today during the early dealings. The fact, however, that August 10 is a danger date for frost in Canada tended to induce a considerable buying and to rally the market from decline. On the other hand, hedging sales here against newly harvested wheat were of liberal volume. Opening prices, which ranged from ⅛c lower to ¼c advance, September 1.28¾ to 1.29 and December 1.32¾ to 1.33¼ were followed by light gains all around and then by numerous fluctuations mostly below yesterday's finish.

Corn and oats were firmer owing to widespread stormy weather. After opening unchanged to ½c higher, December 1.05 to 1.05⅜, corn made a moderate general advance.

Oats started ¼ to ½c up, September 49¾ to 50⅛c and later continued to ascend.

Provisions were steady, in line with hog values.

FRUIT OUTPUT IS FORECAST BY STATE EXPERTS

Figures Indicate That Principal Crops Will Return Short Yields.

Preliminary estimates of state crop production are reported by State Agricultural Statistician E. E. Kaufman for the TRIBUNE. The figures for leading fruit crops follow:

Apples—Weather conditions were favorable to the apple crop during the past month, but the effects of the dry winter are now becoming evident as the fruit is not sizing up as normally. This accounts for a decline of six points in the condition which was reported as being 70 per cent of a normal on Aug. 1, compared with 82 per cent last year and the ten-year average of 78. Should average conditions be maintained until harvest, the 1924 apple crop will be about 8,194,000 bushels, of which California will produce 1,639,000 bushels. Forecast of Oregon is for 1,318,000 and of Washington for 6,144,000 bushels.

Peaches—There was a decline of 8 points in the condition of the peach crop due primarily to many of the orchards in the San Joaquin valley producing a greater percentage of smaller sizes than expected. A condition of 69 per cent of a normal indicates a crop of 300,000 tons compared with the estimated production of 380,000 tons in 1923.

Pears—The condition of the pear crop declined 2 points during July and was estimated to be 66 per cent of a normal on August 1. Eastern shipments to date are only about 65 per cent as heavy as they were at this time in 1923, however, a greater tonnage is moving to the canneries this year. The present outlook therefore warrants a production of 115,000 tons compared with 128,000 tons (December estimate) produced last year.

Apricots — Present information upholds the July 1 report of a condition of 65 per cent of a normal. The season is now rapidly nearing a close and reports indicate that the crop will approximate 127,000 tons compared with 179,000 tons harvested in 1923.

Plums—This crop is not turning out as favorable as reported heretofore. The present condition is only 71 per cent of a normal compared with 99 last year and the seven-year average of 79.

Prunes—The prune outlook at the present time shows very little change from that reported one month ago. Indications are that more fruit of smaller sizes will be produced this year than normally as orchards in unirrigated districts are suffering to some extent from the drought and red spider injury. Production is forecasted at about 100,000 tons.

Oranges—Weather conditions during the past month were generally favorable to the orange crop and as a result the condition figure advanced 1 point compared with July 1. It is now estimated to be 82 per cent of a normal compared with 72 last year and the ten-year average of 77.

Lemons—Prospects for the lemon crop remain the same as on July 1 when the condition was estimated to be 78 per cent of a normal. This compares with 80 at this date last year and the ten-year average of 79.

Olives — Correspondents indicate the present condition of the olive crop to be only 41 per cent of a normal compared with 75 last year and the ten-year average of 71. Prospects are generally poor throughout the entire state.

Figs—The condition of the fig crop declined ten points during July and was estimated to be 73 per cent of a normal on August 1, compared with 97 last year and the seven-year average of 95.

Almonds—The August 1 condition of the almond crop was 61 per cent of a normal compared with 78 last year and the ten-year average of 73. Present prospects are not as favorable in some districts as they were earlier in the season, due to the drought and red spider injury. It is now estimated that the 1924 almond crop will approximate 9200 tons.

Walnuts—The walnut outlook improved somewhat during July as weather conditions were favorable to this crop. The condition was estimated to be 82 per cent of a normal on August 1, compared with the ten-year average of 77. Should average conditions be maintained until harvest the 1924 walnut crop will be about 25,000 tons. Last year approximately 25,000 tons were produced.

Grapes — The moderately cool weather which prevailed during July was beneficial to those vineyards where soil moisture was deficient. The condition of all grapes droped only 2 points last month and is now estimated to be 72 per cent of a normal compared with the ten-year average of 79.

The present bearing acreage of all classes of grapes is about 18 per cent above the bearing acreage of 1923. The vineyards constituting this increase, which are mostly of raisin grape varieties, will not produce a full crop this season. A comparison of the 1923 grape crop by classes with the present outlook shows that the condition of wine grapes last year was about 90 per cent of a normal while the condition this year on August 1 was 78 per cent of a normal. Table grapes on August 1 were about 71 per cent of a normal as compared with 89 in 1923; and raisin grapes were 69 per cent of a normal as compared with 91 in 1923. The present condition of all grapes forecasts a production of approximately 1,638,000 tons on a fresh basis.

DRY GOODS

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—The government cotton report forecasting a yield nearly twenty per cent above the average for the preceding four years, led cloth traders to hesitate in the gray goods division. Cloth prices showed no marked change. Wool markets ruled very steady. Raw silk stiffened but buying by manufacturers was less active. Knit goods showed some improvement. Jobbers reported a moderate volume of new business, the active departments being silks, laces, and fancy dress goods.

This is one of the largest shipments of this commodity to go to the east coast of the United States this season. The freighter will be the better part of all Sunday stowing the shipments away in her hold. The fruit is the product mainly of Alameda county and Santa Clara valley packing plants. The bulk of the shipment is headed for New York with the rest scheduled through to Philadelphia and Boston.

YEARS OF NEURITIS

July 22, 1924.

I suffered long from Neuritis and Rheumatism and had tried many remedies without results. I am happy to say, however, that TWO MONTHS of the FONG WAN HERB TREATMENT afforded my complete and permanent relief. New Opportunity to buy a home out of a small income. Read this proposition:

As soon as you have completed the down payment of $50 you receive all the material for a 3-room house. $250 worth of lumber, hardware, paint, etc. You can start building at once.

Then you pay $25 a month for 8 months. After that only a few dollars each month

Full price of lot and material only $700 to $900.

Doesn't that beat renting? Doesn't it beat buying an expensive house where the payments will be a burden? Get full information today.

2000 MOVE TO OAKLAND EACH MONTH

C. of C. Figures Show 343 Dwellings, 27 Apartment Houses Built Every 30 Days; New Record Set

An average of 27 apartment houses and 343 dwellings are being built in Oakland every month according to figures compiled from the city building department records by the Oakland Chamber of Commerce

Using five families to an apartment and one family to a home and assuming that the homes and apartments are occupied as soon as completed, this unprecedented growth indicates that the city's population is increasing at the rate of nearly 2000 each month.

For the first seven months of 1924, according to permit totals, $10,548,467 worth of new residential and apartment construction was authorized in Oakland. Of this amount 2403 homes cost $7,925,000, or an average of $3300 [illegible], and 194 apartments cost $2,617,477, or an average of $13,000.

The Eastbay district is crowding San Francisco for second place in building permits on the Pacific Coast, according to the figures for the first six months of 1924. The record of 1923 is eclipsed by more than 10 per cent in the first six months of 1924. In this period San Francisco building increased 8 per cent, Los Angeles building decreased 16 per cent, Long Beach building decreased 12 per cent, Seattle increased 22 per cent and Portland 13 per cent.

RUM CRAZED MAN TRIES TO MURDER

SALINAS, Aug. 9.—After taking three shots with a 30-30 rifle at John Hary, teamster, Nick Escobar was captured in the sandhills near Monterey late Thursday afternoon by Sheriff W. A. Oyer and is now in the county jail here. None of the shots hit Hardy, but one wounded one of Hardy's horses and the animal had to be killed. The shooting took place at a point near the Del Monte lake, where Hardy was loading sand.

When the sheriff came upon Escobar after trailing him through the sandhills several miles, the fugitive was concealed beneath a bush with the rifle across his lap. Oyer sneaked up from behind and disarmed Escobar before he had a chance to use the weapon.

Escobar has been in jail here many times for minor offenses and once served a San Quentin term for wielding a knife.

The sheriff says Oscabar appeared to have been drinking heavily when he was captured.

Plan Picnic

W. R. HARPER, and below, J. B. MUIR, who are assisting in the arrangements for the thirty-second annual butchers' picnic.

BUTCHERS MAKE BARBECUE PLANS

A barbecue and rodeo will be the features of the thirty-second annual picnic of the Retail Meat Dealers' association to be held at Idora park on August 14.

W. R. Harper, general chairman of the association and J. B. Muir, secretary, are preparing the plans for the annual reunion

Arrangements for the barbecue are being made by a committee composed of Fred Kohler, chairman, Ed Scholey, Clyde Wagner, E. C. Souza, William Clifton, William McNab, Harry Wagner, John L. Wilbur, J. Rush, Ben Millen, Jr., H. Lemkau, H. H. Quandt, George Hanson, Eugene Shinkwin, and H. F. Eber.

The picnic is being arranged for the entertainment of the customers and friends of the butchers. A ball to be held in the evening will be free to all.

Rancher Lost Breach Of Contract Case

TURLOCK, Aug. 9.—The test case of the Merced Stanislaus Sweet Potato Growers' association against Tony Smith for alleged breach of contract in delivering his crop to the association, was decided by Judge Kilroy in favor of the plaintiff. The judge allowed the association the sum of $70 damages and $50 attorney fee. Attorney Nichols, representing the defendant states the case will be carried to the superior court.

The outcome of the proceedings has caused considerable interest among local ranchers as some 300 are liable for damages since the test case has been decided in favor of the association.

Bonds Are Ordered For Street Work

TRACY, Aug. 9.—Bonds for street work in La Bonita Park, amounting to $13,194 and on West Fourth street amounting to $9734, have been ordered issued to the contractors by the city trustees. The board will meet as an equalization board next Monday. No change in the tax rate is believed possible

BOY SLAYER QUIZ SEEN AS SCIENCE AID

Berkeley Speaker Predicts Loeb-Leopold Questioning Will Help in Combatting Juvenile Delinquencies

BERKELEY, Aug. 9.—Scientific investigations into the case of Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb youthful Chicago slayers will prove of lasting benefit to the youth of today in the opinion of Harrison Allen Dodds of the Chicago juvenile court

Speaking before the Berkeley Public Spirit club, Dodds, who is a former Berkeley boy and a graduate of the University of California, discussed "The Mental Factors of Delinquency." He declared that the murder trial has drawn to Chicago a group of men and women determined to get to the bottom of the difficulties in juvenile delinquency.

He said in part:

Intensive study of the problem has convinced the best authorities that the theory of mental defectiveness or lack of intelligence and the theory of physical deficiencies, such as bad teeth, adenoids, tonsils or glandular troubles, were wrong. Dr. Adler contends that the irregularities are largely attributable to personality.

"The Loeb-Leopold cases afford an opportunity for a laboratory investigation on a scientific basis by trained specialists. I believe that this inquiry is bound to furnish new light upon the difficulties which bring ten thousand boys and girls in one year into a single court charged with juvenile delinquency.

"I believe that we shall find that the training of the child at the age of two or three years is far more important than we have realized, and that we shall be able to discover a corective program for dealing with youngsters sick in the head in time to steer them from our penitentiaries into useful citizens. These boys are not different from the boys who go wrong in Berkeley and Oakland or come before the Dean of the University and if we can discover the mental factors of their crime it will guide us in dealing with similar cases all over the country."

Appeal Filed in Butte County Salary Case

YUBA CITY, Aug. 9.—District Attorney Arthur Coats has filed an appeal in the Supreme Court from the decision of the Third District Court of Appeals in the mandamus proceedings started by County Surveyor William Shearer to compel Auditor Harry Flaherty to pay the surveyor's salary. The validity of the law was in question.

The trial court in Sutter county found a judgment in the matter behalf, whereupon Shearer's attorneys appealed and the Appellate Court reversed the decision. Flaherty has now appealed this reversal through the district attorney.

Escalon Water Rate To Be Investigated

ESCALON, Aug. 9.—The first task of the newly formed Taxpayers' Association is to investigate the increased rates of the Escalon Water Company. Members of the association assert the raise was made without permission of the railroad commission and have called the latter's attention to the matter. The commission has already written the water company. New bills to consumers have had the increased rate withdrawn.

Smart Town Marshal Foils Auto Thieves

LODI, Aug. 9.—City Marshal F. Christesen almost lost his auto Thursday night. While he slumbered thieves pushed it from its parking place in front of his home for the distance of a block and then abandoned it because they could not start the thing. Christesen had taken the precaution to remove a small, but vital accessory before retiring. Three others cars have been stolen here in the last few days, but only one has been recovered.

10,000 TO ATTEND Y. M. I. AND Y. L. I. JOINT CONVENTION

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 9.—Ten thousand delegates and their families will attend the joint convention of the Young Men's Institute and the Young Ladies' Institute, which opens tomorrow in Sacramento, according to officials in charge of the affair. # SWIMMERS GRADUATE IN IDORA TEST

Several Hundred Awarded Diplomas for Proficiency in Water as Result of 'Learn-to-Swim' Campaign

Several hundred Eastbay men, women and children received swimming "diplomas" at Idora Park this afternoon, as testimonials to the proficiency they have gained in the free swimming lessons given in The TRIBUNE'S 'Learn to Swim" campaign for the past eight weeks.

The awarding of the certificates followed qualification tests conducted under the supervision of Miss Claire Ray and Mrs. Marjorie Peck, well known swimming instructors from the East, who have had charge of the classes during the summer.

SWIMS 35 FEET.

Each of the candidates for a diploma was required to swim from the center of the big outdoor swimming pool to the side, a distance of more than 35 feet. Many of those who accomplished this had received only one swimming lesson.

The TRIBUNE tests were held jointly with the annual aquatic meet of the Oakland recreation department, in which boys from the various Oakland playgrounds competed in special "stunts."

1000 TAKE LESSONS.

More than 1000 persons took advantage, during the summer, of The TRIBUNE'S 'Learn to Swim' campaign, which was open to all persons over ten years of age without any charge other than the regular price of admission to the park and to the swimming pool. Many of the pupils in the classes came from neighboring cities and towns, some of them as far away as Hayward and Decoto.

The campaign which closed today, began on June 9, and consisted of several classes given each day throughout the eight weeks' period, except Sundays and holidays.

Boy Pioneers Open Camp With Indian Ceremony

PIEDMONT, Aug. 9.—Opening a ten-day encampment with an impressive Indian ceremony, 100 little Boy Pioneers of Piedmont, ranging from the ages of 9 to 10 years, gathered at Camp Scouting, weekend camp site of Piedmont Scouts, here yesterday for their third annual camp

The ceremony began with the digging up of Chief-Rain-In-the-Face, sturdy Indian warrior of early pioneer days. This ceremony has become a tradition in the annals of Pioneer campaign, and several hundred people gathered to witness it. The image is considered a token of friendship and good will, as well as good luck, and stands in the dining pavilion of the camp during the ten-day encampment.

Following the restoration of the image, the little fellows paraded through the streets of Piedmont dressed in their pajamas under the leadership of Chief War Cloud, in the person of George E. Kenelpp. Piedmont Scout executive in charge of the camp, and two of his Indian braves, Falling Leaf and Strongheart. The Boy Scout Band of 10 pieces, under the direction of Professor Curry, lead the parade.

With the closing of camp at the end of the ten days, the image of Chief-Rain-In-the-Face will be returned to its resting place, for another year.

The camp is under the direction of George Kenelpp, assisted by F. W. Barnett, physical director; Major W. S. Overton of Piedmont, morale officer; Joseph S. Rubin, camp physician; together with a staff of older boys as pioneer leaders. Programs are planned for every night of the encampment, to which the public are invited. The days will be spent in pioneer tests, nature study, game and other forms of recreation
